Royalty Negotiations With Standard Oil Reported At End

OFFICIAL AT SCENE

Senate Investigators Expected To Begin Their Probe Soon

Padlocking of 18 whipstock wells at Huntington Beach, a report that all negotiations with the Standard Oil company for royalties have been called off, and a hurried trip to Huntington Beach by a state official, combined today to keep the oil situation up in the air, but gave promise to important developments in the immediate future.

The report that negotiations with the Standard have been called off was contradicted in another story which said that the state division of lands had threatened to approve contracts with the oil company unless legislative investigating committees make reports in the near future. This story was broadcast by a wire service other than the Associated Press.

Probers Meet Soon

Senator N. T. Edwards of Orange said today he expects a senate oil investigating committee headed by Senator Olson to meet in the near future. This group is commissioned to investigate existing agreements between the state and operators taking state oil, as well as the production from these wells.

Shutting down of the 18 whipstock wells which are taking state oil was ordered because of asserted production above the allowable quotas. They were shut down by Arthur H. Alexander, petroleum

MOVIE BARGE FOUNDERS

Assistant Cameraman Washed Overboard On Location

HOLLYWOOD, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Divers and salvage men were rushed today to San Miguel islands, 50 miles southwest of Santa Barbara, to search for the body of Glenn Strong, assistant cameraman, who was lost when heavy seas foundered an 80-foot barge fitted up as a replica of the British warship Pandora late yesterday.

Strong was one of a company of about 75 men, cameramen, technical experts, ship's crew and studio attaches at work in the picture, "Mutiny on the Bounty," in which the warship Pandora figures. During the night, the coast guard understood the sunken vessel was the "Bounty" itself.

After an all-night search for Strong, hope that he might have survived was abandoned.

Motion picture equipment valued at $50,000 sank with the barge.

Artists in the picture, including the three male stars, Clark Gable, Charles Laughton and Franchot Tone, were not with the location outfit.

WOMAN INJURED!

Two Escape Amid Hail Of Bullets; Guard Critically Hurt

PEORIA, Ill., Friday, July 26. (AP)—Three persons, including a woman shopper, were shot today when three payroll robbers battled police in a downtown fight.

One robber who gave the name of Ed Mace of Kansas City, was captured after he had been wounded by pursuing police.

His two companions escaped with $7500, police estimated. Nearly $10,000 was in a bag wrested from payroll guards, police said, but $2500 was scattered over the streets as the robbers fled.

Joseph Backus, 50, guard for a tavern, was probably fatally wounded by a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun.

Mrs. John Edinburgh of Peoria, shopping on the third floor of a department store, was struck in the forehead by a stray bullet.

The robbers waited for Backus and Ed Ryan, the men with the payroll, in an alley half a block from the Commercial Merchants National bank.

They ordered Backus to hand over the money bag. Instead, he whipped out a revolver. One bandit fired at Backus and nearly shot his arm off. Backus emptied his gun at them after he fell.

FOUR MISSING IN SAILBOAT

Four persons were reported missing at sea in a sailboat somewhere off San Clemente today by R. W. Giddings of San Diego, who is searching for the party in his cruiser.

Yesterday afternoon Jess R. Skeen of Skeen of Newport Beach towed in Mr. Giddings in his cruiser, "Rey De Oles," after the boat had broken down 21 miles off the San Clemente coast. Before the cruiser developed engine trouble, Mr. Giddings reported he had been towing a sailboat carrying four San Diego persons.

The sailing vessel was becalmed when picked up by the cruiser and was later released when a wind arose. Since that time no word has been received from occupants of the vessel, names of whom were not obtained by harbor authorities.

Wooden Teeth Used When Store Molars Are Lost

A Rockwall county resident lost his teeth and found it difficult to handle a laborer's diet, but a whittling friend came to his rescue.

A set of molars the friend carved from wood were sufficiently successful for the recipient to abandon the idea of seeing his dentist.

"They don't look so good, but they do the work," he commented.

FLOOD PLANS ARE STUDIED

Supervisors in Closed Session Today With Three Engineers

With Orange county's $11,000,000 flood control program in the San Francisco office of PWA, awaiting forwarding to Washington, the board of supervisors late today were to meet with consulting engineers who have been cooperating in the battle to secure federal aid for the project.

For the purpose of preparing additional data, considered important to the county's application for federal financing, John Mitchell, chairman of the board of supervisors, called a private session of the board for this afternoon to confer with B. A. Etcheverry, Thomas F. Means and A. Kempke, members of the consulting board of engineers employed by the county to assist in the project.

Mr. Etcheverry, who represented Orange county in Washington, when the flood control project was first presented for consideration for a federal loan and grant, has been in San Francisco for several weeks in connection with the project and was expected today to report progress of the project before the San Francisco PWA organization.

Passing of the proposed flood control project by the Los Angeles PWA office is considered a big step toward its ultimate approval by the final authority in Washington. That the San Francisco office would approve it has been indicated in preliminary reports to the board by Mr. Etcheverry and others who have maintained contact with the proceeding.

Paul Bailey, engineer for the Orange County Basin district, contacted board members yesterday and obtained permission to study data on hand in the office of Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson.

CHINESE CANAL BREAKS BANKS

SHANGHAI, Friday, July 25. (AP)—China's normally placid Grand Canal, for 2000 years the country's greatest North-South waterway, became an instrument of wholesale destruction today, the swollen current suddenly bursting its banks at half a dozen places and lashing out into the green country side of Southern Shantung.

The newest disaster came just as farmers of that area were jubilant over a sharp drop in the Yellow river, which they believed ended their flood menace.

Gen. Calles Gets Wild Welcome As Tabasco's New Governor

MEXICO CITY, Friday, July 26. (AP)—General Saturnino Osornio, governor of Queretaro, was formally charged today with homicide while another governor, Dr. Rafael Villarreal of Tamaulipas, was fighting for his political life.

In Tabasco, Gen. Aureo C. Calles was given a thunderous welcome by the public as he assumed the governorship, replacing Manuel Lastra who was ousted early this week.

Charges against Osornio were brought before the permanent commission of congress by Julge Pastrana Jaimes of the first district court, who asked that the governor be removed from office and brought to trial for his alleged participation in the killing of Enrique Rio, Spanish business man.

Rio was found hanging in a cell in the Queretaro jail on July 22. Federal investigators said he was beaten to death before his body was taken to the jail.

The charges against Osornio also assert that he failed to respect a federal injunction that Rio had obtained to guarantee his personal safety.

In Tabasco, Tomas Garrido Canabal, whose political dictatorship in the state was broken by the overthrow of Gov. Manuel Lastra, was guarded from possible violence by federal troops.

FARM FINANCE BILL 'KILLED'

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. (AP)—House administration leaders passed the word around today that the inflationary Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance farm mortgages with $3,000,000,000 in new money is "dead for this session."

They based this prediction on the fact that they had made new progress in their campaign to remove signatures from a petition to force a house vote on the measure. The total stood at only 203 signers today, 13 short of the 216 signatures needed to force the bill out of the rules committee.

SAN QUENTIN, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Ellis J. Latona, 43, scheduled to hang on the gallows at San Quentin prison today, was granted a last-minute 30-day stay of execution by Governor Merriam. Latona was convicted by a Los Angeles jury in 1933 of slaying Jose Flores.

85 WPA JOBS PREPARED

Project Applications Ready To Be Sent To Headquarters

Eighty-five project applications, construction costs on which will run up to $2,500,000, will be sent to the San Francisco offices of the Works Progress administration tomorrow night or Monday for approval, it was learned today. The projects are designed to provide jobs for Orange county unemployed for the coming year, and include all State Emergency Relief administration jobs, which must be transferred to the WPA.

Only three weeks are left for operation of the construction division of the SERA. All SERA projects will then be transferred to the WPA.

There are now 2678 persons on SERA rolls eligible for work relief. On the basis of $1000 per man-year as the cost of the projects, it would cost $2,678,000 to carry out the projects. In addition to this, sponsors would be expected to provide 20 per cent of the federal expenditures.

An increase in the unemployment totals, which usually rise in the winter when agricultural work is slack, would necessitate jobs for perhaps 1000 more men and women.

BANKING BILL IS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. (AP)—The senate today approved without a record vote the heart of the compromise band bill —placing control of the nation's credit in the hands of a federal reserve board of seven members and five representatives of the 12 regional reserve banks. The action followed rejection of the Nye government-owned central bank substitute by a vote of 59 to 10.

Leaders Declare Policy Of Nazis Is Lowering Morale of Athletes

BERLIN Friday, July 26. (AP)—The probability that no Jews will participate for Germany in the 1936 Olympic Games was seen today in a disclosure by the official German Olympic committee office that there are no Jews among the athletes already chosen to compete for the German Olympic team.

This disclosure came close on the heals of a Nazi administration decree dissolving the entire Steel Helmet (the German war veterans' organization) in East Prussia and the assignment of a supervisor of non-Aryan art with the specific duty of eliminating Jewish influences from German art.

At the Olympic office it was learned that eight or 10 German athletes already have been chosen from each Olympic sport for the tryouts.

GUARDS CRUSH LUMBER RIOT

HOQUIAM, Wash., Friday, July 26. (AP)—Steel helmeted national guardsmen were held in readiness here today for fresh troubles after lumber strike sympathizers had stoned a company of them rushing to the aid of a squad surrounded by a mob of 500 persons.

The crowd, jeering loudly, laid down a barrage of rocks last night when the company arrived in trucks at a house where the squad was holding off a threatened attack. Maj. W. C. Hand, commanding the guards, ordered the charge and his men sprang from the trucks and charged with fixed bayonets into the throng. The crowd surged backward, broke and scattered.

AFRICANS AND ITALY HURL CHARGES

Two Nations Blame Each Other For Argument Over Frontier

BOTH SEND NOTES

Date For Session Left To Members; Answers Expected Tomorrow

GENEVA, Friday, July 26. (AP)—The League of Nations today summoned its members to an extraordinary council session to consider the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia, asking them whether they preferred to meet July 31 or August 1.

J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league, asked the nations represented to reply before noon tomorrow to his invitation which read:

"As it does not appear from the information received that the four arbitrators (the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission) reached before July 25 any of the agreements or understandings provided for by resolution, the president notifies the colleagues that the extraordinary session provided in the resolution will take place."

Each Blames Other

This announcement followed receipt of notes from both Ethiopia and Italy, in which each charged the other with responsibility for the East African crisis. Ethiopia requested the council session.

Italy's note attributed to Ethiopia the blame for the breakdown of the conciliation commission, which collapsed at Scheveingen, The Netherlands, after Italian delegates refused to hear Ethiopian testimony on territorial questions, which they insisted should not be discussed.

The text of Ethiopia's note was not disclosed in full, but authoritative sources said it protested again at Italy's warlike preparations in East Africa and asked the league council to discuss the entire Italo-Ethiopian controversy.

In connection with the special council session it was recalled that Italy was the nation which sponsored energetically the African empire's admission to the league.

Fought for Africans

While the Italian press characterized Ethiopia as a barbarous nation, an examination of league records showed that Italian delegates in 1923 asserted that league membership would help Ethiopia to become a "more effectual pioneer of civilization in Central Africa."

The Italian delegates asserted in speeches at that time that Ethiopia throughout the ages had "acquired titles of nobility."

Ethiopia was admitted to the

'READY MADE WIFE' NEXT

Journal to Begin New Serial

Many planes have been lost in futile attempts to span the oceans, but no tragedy of the air has had a stranger sequel than that in "Ready Made Wife," The Journal's new serial starting Monday, July 29.

Coralie Stanton tells the story with an appreciation of dramatic values which sustains throughout the story the interest aroused at its start, when Laurie Moore is introduced as the attractive young widow of Rex Moore, never heard from since his take-off on a Pacific adventure.

His name is barely out of the headlines when Laurie Moore arrives from Australia and soon is in the employ of Mark Albery, whose plane factory had backed Rex Moore's flight. Albery and her fellow employes pay Laurie the respect they feel due the widow of the renowned flier, still honored at the factory for his technical ability and his daring as an aviator. Yet to Albery there is something strange about this young woman who withdraws into a silence and a reserve whenever, blunderingly or with a confused attempt at tact, he refers to Rex Moore and Laurie's widowhood.

Albery's interest in Laurie rests not only on his appreciation of her business ability, but also on a regard more personal. While he musters his courage, hoping to tell Laurie of this feeling, a fateful coincidence brings her into a chance meeting with a stranger who tells her something about Rex Moore that fills her with despair. The discovery complicates all of her relationships, present and prospective, and until her problem at last disappears in a happy solution her life is under a cloud.

This, briefly, is the story of "Ready Made Wife." Readers who start with the first chapter Monday, July 29, in The Journal will find it throughout an exciting combination of romance and adventure.

'CRIME COLLEGE' TO OPEN

21 Freshmen Study Methods

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. (AP) — Twenty-one of the nation's "finest" are converging on the national capital—freshmen in Uncle Sam's first college in crime prevention.

The school term is three months; the "campus," the air-cooled quarters of the justice department's bureau of investigation.

The crime college, which opens officially Monday, is unusual in many ways. Suggested by the 1934 conference on crime, it represents the federal government's first attempt on a large-scale to coordinate the work of city, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies.

Especially enthusiastic and interested is J. Edgar Hoover, director of the investigation bureau and "prexy" of the college. Both he and Assistant Director Hugh H. Clegg, hope increased good will and more sympathetic understanding between federal and state police authorities will result.

A faculty of 41 experts on criminology will cover sciences and arts related to the preventing of crime, requiring practical work as well as "book larnin'" of their students.

PAYOFF BY POWER OFFICIAL HINTED AT SENATE LOBBY PROBE

MYSTERY BOX IS CITED BY WITNESS

Representative Patton Is Reported Seen At Hotel With Package

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. (AP)—A surprise witness told the senate lobby committee today that Representative Patton (D., Tex.), carried a small box away from a power company official's hotel room the Sunday before the house vote on the holding company bill.

E. V. Sellers, an NRA employe, told the lobby committee he had seen Mr. Patton carry a small box from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light company.

A couple of days later, Sellers said, Patton showed him a bond he said he had just bought.

He told of conversations later with Patton's nephew, who accompanied them to the hotel, in which he said the nephew, Norris Shook, expressed doubt the package was a box of cigars.

"The box wasn't as large as that one," Sellers said, pointing to the box Patton had brought into the committee room.

When Sellers was dismissed, Patton took the stand, obviously nervous and shaken.

"I never was so profoundly fooled in my life than I am at the testimony you have just heard," he began, slowly, standing at the witness table.

"I have never been so shaken or chagrined in all my life," he added. "My bank account is open and the cancelled checks are there. I have never heard tell of the little box Mr. Sellers tells about."

He denounced Sellers' testimony about the bond as false.

NEEDY ORDERED TO TAKE JOBS

Agricultural workers on relief must accept jobs in the sugar beet harvest starting next week or be dropped from relief rolls, Terrence Halloran, State Emergency Relief administration director here, said today.

This is not a new policy but simply carries on a policy inaugurated last April when beet growers had difficulty in getting beet thinners to work. It is in harmony with instructions issued recently by the federal government.

Mr. Halloran said today that there are approximately 250 agricultural workers on relief rolls of the SERA. Last April, before the policy went into effect, there were about 1100. It is expected that 1000 to 1500 beet toppers will be needed for the harvest, but it is believed they will be available in Orange county.

Mr. Halloran said that in reality there have been few cases of men on relief refusing to accept jobs.

RE-TRIAL IS WON BY MRS. TALKINGTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, July 26. (AP)—In a decision on file here today, the state supreme court ruled that judges may comment on evidence in criminal cases, under a recently-enacted law, but that their comment must be limited to impartial interpretation of the evidence.

The state's highest court made its ruling in upholding an appellate court order granting a new trial of Mrs. Bertha Talkington, convicted by a Merced county jury of murdering her husband Lamar Talkington, a Watsonville barber.

Attorneys for Mrs. Talkington appealed the case on the ground that the trial judge's comments virtually instructed the jury to find the woman guilty. The appellate court agreed the comments were "argumentative" and ordered a new trial.

Talkington was shot to death the night of October 15, 1934, while on an automobile trip from Watsonville to Modesto with his wife. She reported her husband had been shot by holdup men, but officers later said she confessed she shot him during a quarrel after he had threatened to kill her.

INSANITY PLEADED IN MORALS CHARGE

Lee Grider of Huntington Beach entered a double plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity when he was arraigned in superior court today on a statutory charge involving an eight-year-old girl. He waived a jury and his trial was set for August 20 in department 3, superior court. Presiding Judge James Allen appointed Dr. Van Meter and Dr. Williams, Los Angeles alienists, to examine Grider.

Allen Brady of Orange pleaded guilty to a statutory charge involving two boys and asked for probation. Hearing on the application was set for August 2 at 10 a. m.

MORE ABOUT JEWS BARRED

was called discrimination by the Jews and was called due to the incompetence of Jewish athletes by Nazi sport leaders.

A member of the staff of Hans Van Tschammer und Osten, Nazi sports commissioner, pointed to the establishment of a training camp for Jewish sportsmen and opportunities given them for participating in the eliminations. Men prominent in the Berlin Jewish community however, said "pressure to lower the morale of our competitors," the virtual elimination of all training facilities and "the general attitude towards the Jews" constitute "a flagrant of at least the spirit of many promises that there would be no discrimination against Jews."

Only Six Jews

Among the hundreds of athletes participating in the Berlin preliminary competitions, only six were Jews.

Among the thousands throughout Germany who formally trained for the spring and summer tests, only 20 were Jews who were tutored by an Aryan instructor at Ettlingen, Baden.

These figures were given out by the Reich's sport department.

Athletes Ignored

A Jewish spokesman called "extremely noteworthy," however, the fact that those in charge of the Ettlingen camp refused to give out information regarding the performances of the Jews and said: "The Jewish competitors throughout the elimination tests were treated as though they had not participated."

A Nazi official stated: "Of course Jews competed in the first test, but none survived."

Governor Erich Koch of East Prussia announced the dissolution of the Steel Helmet in his district. The stern action against the veterans' organization—Germany's equivalent to the American Legion—was taken under the February 28, 1933, law for the protection of the people of the state. It accompanied a broadening of the Nazi three-sided "cleansing act" against Semitism, "political Catholicism" and "reactionary" veterans.

U. S. HEAD SEES NO REASON FOR TROUBLE

CHICAGO, Friday, July 26. (AP) Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, today refused to get excited over the disclosure in Berlin that no Jews have been named so far among the athletes already chosen to compete for the German Olympic team.

"The fact that no Jews have been named so far to compete for Germany doesn't necessarily mean that they have been discriminated against on that score," he said. "In 40 years of Olympic history, I doubt if the number of Jewish athletes competing from all nations totaled 1 per cent in the games. In fact, I believe one-half of 1 per cnt would be a high percentage."

BURGLAR GIVEN PRISON TERM

Waiving his preliminary hearing on a second degree burglary charge when he appeared this morning before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, John Yeargan, Costa Mesa, was taken immediately into superior court where he pleaded guilty. He waived time for pronouncement of judgment and Presiding Judge James L. Allen sentenced him to San Quentin prison.

When arrested two weeks ago, Yeargan confessed to burglarizing the McClellan drug store in Olive several months ago. He was brought to Santa Ana from Long Beach to plead this morning and was immediately returned there to answer to other burglary charges.

CONTRACTOR FINED FOR NO LICENSE

Charged with operating as a contractor without a state license, L. H. Smith, 118 East Bishop, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 yesterday afternoon by City Judge J. G. Mitchell. Mr. Smith had worked under the Coast Termite and Fungus Control company. The court suspended $75 of the fine.

The job from which his prosecution resulted was done on the Ebell clubhouse at 625 Franch street. The prosecution was handled by John Creighton for the state department of professional and vocational standards.

CATO OUSTER DEMANDED!

'Gold Card' Practice Cited

The famous "gold" courtesy card case was returning to the limelight today. E. Raymond Cato, highway patrol chief who issues the gold cards, will achieve civil service status on August 20, it was pointed out today by W. A. Taylor of this city. Mr. Taylor said he had written a letter to R. Ray Ingels, newly-appointed director of the department of motor vehicles, asking Mr. Cato's removal because of his gold card custom, before he attains civil service status.

The cards came into prominence here when James Arnold, Los Angeles, had to turn over his gold card to Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison. The court scored Mr. Cato for assertedly issuing the cards to his friends. Mr. Taylor said today he believes the cards are evidence of favoritism and that their issuance disqualifies Mr. Cato from holding office.

Mr. Cato and Mr. Arnold, who was before the court on a speeding charge, claimed the cards were issued for identification only.

AWARD $11,000 IN DAMAGES

Judgments totalling $11,000 were ordered last night against Ralph G. Swatzell, Anaheim, and Rudolph Kubias, drivers of two automobiles involved in a crash February 19, last, in which Mrs. Una Kubias lost her life.

The judgments were returned by a jury which heard evidence in three damage actions, started as a result of a crash at Palm and Chapman avenues. Damages totalling $132,247 had been requested in the suits.

Robert Lusk, a passenger in the automobile driven by Mr. Swatzell, was awarded $1000 in his suit against Mr. Kubias, and Mrs. Lorea Ryan, another passenger and co-plaintiff with Mr. Lusk, was awarded $5000 for her injuries. She had sued for $20,452, and Mr. Lusk for $20,330.

Albert G. Kohlhaas, passenger in the Kubias car, had sued Mr. Swatzell for $35,000, and was awarded $5000. Mr. Kubias was denied $55,000 damages for the death of his wife and for personal injuries. He had sued Mr. Swatzell, alleging negligence in operating his automobile. Mr. Swatzell also was refused recompense for his injuries after having demanded approximately $50,000 in a cross-complaint against Kubias.

NEW RULE HITS TOMATO CROP

Orange county tomato growers today were caught in a predicament which may have a serious effect on their marketing this season as a result of new grading regulations put into operation by the state department of public health.

Clarence Brown, chairman of the farm bureau vegetable department, said growers face a heavy loss under these regulations. The difficulty has arisen from the fact that the new grades were put into effect in the middle of the season. Canneries already have contracted for their fruit on the basis of buying field-run tomatoes at a certain price, and now the regulations will require the grower to furnish a higher grade tomato at no increase in price, Mr. Brown explained.

The new regulations were explained at a meeting of the vegetable department in the farm bureau hall last night by state officials. In order to discuss the matter further, a tomato grading demonstration will be held in the same place at 7:30 p. m. next Tuesday.

RADIO SYSTEM FOR PATROL

A 24-hour service with radio patrol cars, radio equipped motorcycles and a radio in the main office will be established by the California highway patrol in Orange county Monday, Captain Henry Meehan announced today. In the past, the office has been closed after midnight and on holidays.

Captain Meehan asks that any witness to an accident on the highways call the highway patrol offices, Santa Ana 2100, immediately. There are four cars equipped with radios, and messages from police radio station KGHX will be broadcast to the cars as soon as a call comes in to the office. At present only one motorcycle is equipped with a receiving set, but at least 10 more will be equipped within the near future, he said.

Highways will be patrolled by two cars between 8 a. m. and midnight, and by one car from midnight until 8 a. m. One motorcycle will be equipped for the purpose of obtaining photographs of all accidents.

JURY STILL OUT IN MORALS ACTION

After more than 24 hours a jury in department 1, superior court, had not reached a verdict at noon in the case of George Higgins, San Clemente resident accused of a statutory offense involving two school boys.

The case was given to the jury shortly before noon yesterday and at midnight the jury was ordered locked up for the night when the jurors reported that they had not reached a decision.

DRIVER BLAMED BY QUIZ JURY

Frank S. Pyatt, 21, of 425 West Washington street, could see only 10 feet through the fog ahead of his car, which was traveling 35 or 40 miles an hour on South Main street Tuesday night and was involved in an accident which resulted in the death of Burton Leo Pratt, 21, a passenger in his car.

This was Mr. Pyatt's testimony yesterday afternoon at an inquest in the Winbigler Funeral home, conducted by Coroner Earl Abbey. The jury found that the fatal accident was due to the negligent manner in which Mr. Pyatt was was driving his car.

The Pyatt machine collided with the rear of a car operated by Carl J. Nelson, 622 North Lemon street, Anaheim, and then turned over. Mr. Nelson testified that his car was going in the same direction at the time of the impact.

Mr. Pyatt told the jury the Nelson car had stopped on the road and that when he first saw it the machine was 10 feet ahead of him, without a tail light. The statement that the Nelson car had stopped did not agree with testimony of any other witness. Mr. Nelson said he knew his tail light had been operating properly that afternoon. The tail light assembly was broken off in the crash.

BRITONS KILLED IN ETHIOPIAN CLASH

ROME, Friday, July 26. (AP)—The Stefani (Italian) news agency said in a dispatch today from Djibouti that three British somalis were killed in June in "a bloody encounter" between Ethiopian soldiers and native troops of British Somaliland.

The dispatch said the engagement occurred in the vicinity of Pastorahei and that the British Somaliland troops involved constituted the escort for the district commissioner of Archeisa, British Somaliland.

The dispatch said the incident was regarded as likely to produce grave repercussions, since the tribesmen were indignant at both British and Ethiopians.

1400 FINS VOLUNTEER FOR DUTY IN AFRICA

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Friday, July 26. (AP)—The Italian and Ethiopian consulates said today that 1400 Fins have volunteered for service in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

One thousand have volunteered for service in the Italian army and 400 for the Ethiopian army, but no applications have thus far been accepted.

ETHIOPIANS REFUSE NEW PEACE PARLEY

ADDIS ABABA, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Authoritative sources said today that Ethiopia would refuse to accept a revival of the conciliation commission in its controversy with Italy.

The stand was made known upon receipt of a new note from Italy, expressing willingness to have a fifth neutral member appointed to the commission which collapsed at Scheveningen, The Netherlands.

The Ethiopian government put its hope for solution of its controversy with Italy squarely up to the League of Nations.

This stand was communicated to the Italian government in answer to an Italian request for a revival of the conciliation commission.

MORE ABOUT OIL WELLS

Carl Sturznacker, deputy director of finance, was the author of the statement that all negotiations with the Standard for oil removed from the state's tideland pool at Huntington Beach have been held up pending completion of the senate interim committee's investigation. The finance official left Sacramento last night for Huntington Beach to study the oil proration situation there.

Standard Has 16

The Standard Oil company has 16 wells along the bluffs at Huntington Beach which are admittedly taking state oil by drainage. It is in respect to these wells that negotiations have been carried on. The Standard is understood to have tendered the state a check for $480,000 as a settlement but this check, it is reported, has not been accepted.

Senator Edwards said Senator Olson had asked that negotiations be held up, before the last legislative session ended. He said he did not anticipate any immediate settlement with the Standard.

Action Faces Test

Shutting down of the 18 wells was ordered under a new law which became effective July 15, which says that production of whipstock wells must not exceed allocations prescribed by the state division of lands. It is understood that the state's action in padlocking the wells will be tested in court.

The Wilshire Oil company has 10 wells in the padlocked group. Other companies affected include the Petrol company, two wells; Windsor, Fortuna, Venton and Two-in-One company, one well each, and Centralia company, two wells.

Altogether there are 86 whipstocked wells in the town lot area, which must operate under the July 15 law on allowable production. They have a potential output of 40,947 barrels per day, but their allowable is 13,908.

TAX BILL IS PRAISED AND CRITICIZED

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Strong criticism and vigorous praise today greeted the tentative bill with which democratic committeemen of the house propose to put the president's tax ideas on the statute books.

The democrats on the house ways and means committee drafted a measure designed to raise an annual sum variously estimated at $150,000,000 to more than $250,000,000.

From Two Sides

In general the criticism was from two sides—advocates of a balanced budget, many of them republicans, and left-wing share-the-wealth men. The praise came from members, including a number of democrats, who said the committeemen, in shaping the plan, followed a middle-of-the-road course.

From the senate came a portent of a battle ahead. Senator Walsh (D., Mass.), in a radio speech last night in the Washington Evening Star forum, analyzed the president's proposals critically, and said it was "unfortunate" that the question was not presented "as a revenue measure than a reform measure."

None Practical

Urging that action be postponed until January, he said:

"None of the proposals for redistribution of wealth, of which we have recently heard so much, is sound or practical."

In brief, the measure formed by the house committee calls for a stiff tax on "excess" corporation profits, ranging as high as 20 per cent; new inheritance taxes ranging from 4 to 75 per cent; additional gift taxes of 3 to 57 per cent; higher surtaxes on individual incomes over $150,000.

$900,000,000 UTILITY VALUATION IS PREDICTED BY SPEAKER

STATE BOARD MAN TALKS AT BEACH

Senator Edwards Is Also On Program at League Meet at Newport

NEWPORT BEACH.—Total assessed valuation of utility property to be turned over to cities and counties of California will be over $900,000,000, Edward Cooper, from the valuation department of the state board of equalization told members of the Orange County League of Municipalities at a meeting in Newport Beach last night.

Utilities will undoubtedly have to pay more in taxes under the new system than they did under the gross receipts plan, Mr. Cooper said, but, in his opinion they will not attempt to raise their rates to consumers in order to meet the added expense. However, they should expect ultimately to get back their expense cost and the added tax cost, but over a long period of time, he said.

Methods used by the appraisal department were explained by the speaker, who said that the board would take the rate set on utilities property and relate that to assessment of the cities, equalizing the two.

Will Resist Changes

"In most cases taxpayers are regarding assessments of the division as too high," he said, "but we will resist any changes in those assessments except to correct errors. I am glad to see that the League of Municipalities has counsel to resist any efforts to lower the assessments," he added.

Utilities will be assessed on 50 per cent of their valuation, Mr. Cooper said. Rolling stock of steam railroads will be assessed according to the number of miles of tract and its use in a district, he said.

Members of the league acted officially in recommending to cities that they assist the California League of Municipalities in appearing at hearings before the board of equalization next month. Each member city has been asked to contribute to a fund for counsel to argue against assessment reductions at the hearing.

Senator Edwards Speaker

State Senator N. T. Edwards was a guest and spoke on problems which have been faced by the legislature in the past session. He said that he couldn't see why Governor Merriam did not sign the Huntington Beach oil bill, as it would not have intefered with the tidelands drilling bill. The governor might call a special session to take care of the matter, although such action is doubtful, he said.

Assemblyman James Utt also spoke, telling members that all new taxes passed by the legislature were merely a shifting of the tax burden and were not additional expenditures. The big fight in the legislature has been to keep from destroying business, he said, as anything that even appeared to be a corporation or company was the target for legislation.

Editor Talks

W. R. Updegraff, editor of Western City, official publication of the league, spoke briefly on the program of the league in the legislature.

Clayton Holland, administrator of the Los Angeles district for the state board of equalization, was introduced as a guest by L. A. Hogue, president of the county league, and in turn introduced Mr. Cooper, speaker of the evening.

Dr. C. G. Huston of Costa Mesa, vice president of the associated chambers of commerce, announced the next meeting of the group, which will be held at Laguna Beach Tuesday, with Governor Merriam as honored guest. He invited all members of the league to attend.

Announces Event

Harry Welch, secretary of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce, invited those present to visit the harbor district again and take a trip on the government dredge which is now operating. He also announced the Tournament of Lights on August 24, a kayak meet on August 3 and the Orange county swimming meet, August 17.

Mayor W. H. Hilmer of Newport Beach welcomed visitors to the meeting. President Hogue presided and announced the next meeting of the league for August 22 at Laguna Beach.

Before the dinner meeting, which was attended by about 75 members, they were taken on an inspection trip of Newport harbor to see dredging work now being done there.

Keep medicines in a cool, dry, dark place. Light has a deteriorating effect on many medicines put up in solution form.

102—DISLIKES SMOKERS

Miss Ellen Bromley of Alden Park, Pa., who, on her 102nd birthday, remarked that she saw no excuse for girls who smoked or drank liquor. She said they were certainly different than in her day. Miss Bromley is shown with her nurse.

WHERE'S THE DRESSING?

Rancher Has 2000 Turkeys

BOLSA.—Did you ever see 2000 Thanksgiving dinners "on the hoof"?

There are that many running around on the Gus Ward ranch at Bolsa. Mr. and Mrs. Ward raise turkeys in a big way to supply the Thanksgiving market for the birds.

The potential turkey dinners are not hard to raise, Mrs. Ward said yesterday, although they require a great deal of care. They are fed special turkey feed, alfalfa and wheat, and become ill only when their feed is changed, and then they suffer from indigestion.

The Wards have raised turkeys for the market for several years. This year a huge pen on their ranch is nearly overflowing with the ungainly birds, while another smaller enclosure holds over 500 more, which are younger than the main flock.

A majority of the turkeys were born about March 30, and will be seven months of age and in the best condition for eating by Thanksgiving, Mrs. Ward said.

SEEK LAND FOR NEW HIGHWAY

ANAHEIM.—Bids for paving the last stretch of Manchester avenue through Anaheim will be advertised by the state highway department as soon as rights-of-way are obtained from 13 property owners in the half-mile stretch, it has been announced by E. N. Whittemore, state agent.

Anaheim has turned over $13,600 of gasoline tax funds to be used for the purpose of obtaining the land, and some state funds will be used for the purpose, it was announced.

Work is reported progressing rapidly on the highway, which has been paved from Palisades Del Rey almost to Lincoln boulevard in Anaheim, with contracts for all but the half-mile stretch awarded. The last strip to be paved starts at Lincoln and crosses Center street at Adams street, bisects Thalia street north of Broadway, crosses Santa Ana street and follows the Pacific Electric right-of-way.

From the Walnut street intersection the highway will be built to Mira Flores on the 101 highway, with C. O. Sparks, contractor, planning to start paving work there as soon as paving is done to Lincoln boulevard.

LICENSE PLATE COSTLY!

Tustin Judge Says $36.50

TUSTIN.—Bernard Eldredge of Costa Mesa paid a $30 fine and $6.50 for a license plate in Judge D. T. Hayden's court yesterday when found guilty of having painted a 1934 license plate for his trailer to resemble this year's plate.

Officer John H. Turton arrested George A. Schuetz, who had rented the trailer from Mr. Eldredge, near Tustin last week when he noticed that the numbers on the plate did not have the correct shade of yellow. Mr. Eldredge had placed a bolt and washer over the "4" on the 1934 date of the license, to save buying a $3 license last January, it was charged. The license cost him $36.50.

When it was found that Mr. Schuetz knew nothing of the license plate having been mutilated, he was released with a $15 fine suspended for one year.

One new teacher has been hired at Placentia, he announced, with the board of education choosing Gerhard O. Runsvold to head the instrumental music departments of the school system. Mr. Runsvold formerly headed the music department at the state teacher's college at Silver City, N. M.

REFINANCING DISTRICT VOTED

GARDEN GROVE.—The prevalent notion that this just isn't a good time for bond elections was decisively disproved yesterday when voters of the Newhope Drainage district piled up an 87 to 1 majority for a $101,000 bond issue to refinance district obligations.

Even the solitary ballot cast against the bonds is believed to have been a mistake. It is thought that the voter became confused and placed the cross in the wrong place.

Success of the election will enable the district to take advantage of an offer of a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with which it will pay off its original $160,000 bond issue made 10 years ago. The bonds are now maturing.

The Newhope district includes 3567 acres west of the Santa Ana river and south of Garden Grove.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS TALK

ORANGE.—Members of the Rotary club were addressed by Sam Hayes, the Richfield reporter, yesterday at the regular noon meeting. Mr. Hayes was secured as speaker through efforts of Harry Haynes, program chairman of the day.

Mr. Hayes' topic was "News and News Personalities," and he gave reviews of interviews with notables, beginning with J. Clark Sellers, handwriting expert in the Hauptmann trial. He also told facts concerning Stewart Chase and his recommendation to the president as early as 1932 that a series of great public works be inaugurated.

Dr. Arthur B. Torrence, African explorer, was next in interviews. Carveth Wells, the Russian traveler was also commented upon.

The guest from the greatest distance at the meeting was J. T. Shipman from Bartlesville, Okla., who is visiting in Santa Ana.

THREE MEN DIE IN HOTEL FIRE

Two men were burned to death and a third was fatally injured when he leaped to the street in a fire which swept the 46-year-old Del Monte hotel in Aberdeen, Wash. Twenty-four men escaped by jumping from windows or by fire ladders. (Associated Press Photo)

PIONEER TALES

By the Old Timer

The ninth of a series of narratives having to do with the early life of Santa Ana and Orange county.

From The Herald, March 12, 1881:

"We learn from Mr. J. D. Dunlap that the mining outlook at Silverado is exceedingly favorable. He says there are three men at work on the Blue Light; they are down 175 feet upon the ledge and the prospect is good. Knapp & Company are employing eight men and taking out good ore. It is only a little question of time when a steam mill will be in operation in the rich mining region of Silverado, when the mines are more fully developed. Coal is within three and one-half miles of the silver mines and easily transported. There are several families residing at or near the mines, and there are in all about sixty men there. The distance from this place to the mines is about 17 miles, almost a direct road. Only choice ore is now shipped by rail to San Francisco."

And again:

"Material is being accumulated at the Santa Clara coal mines for work on the shaft. We understand that the company's engineers say there is now $500,000 worth of coal in sight. Agents here and in Anaheim are being supplied with this coal for sale."

Don't know what sort of speedometers they had in those days. From Santa Ana to the old town of Silverado is about 23 miles now.

MORE LIBERTY GONE

March 19, 1881:

"Mrs. Taylor, having made complaint against Mr. Burgess, charging him with having cruelly beaten his horse to death, the case came up before Judge Humphreys, but was, on motion of defendant, transferred to Anaheim. We learn that a fine of $20.00 was imposed."

* * *

"Mr. Whitehead recently killed three hogs, 5 months old, which weighed, when dressed, 220 pounds each. They were improved Berkshires."

The same man, I believe, that we read about last week, whose two daughters grew a lot of corn and presented him with the proceeds. About time for a redistribution of wealth, I'll say.

HOTEL TALK

"We understand that some parties are here for the purpose of purchasing land upon which to erect a first-class hotel. It is stated that Mr. Jas. Hickey was offered $3,000 for the lot where his stable stands, but the offer was refused."

This is the corner where the Rossmore hotel block is now located, which was originally known as the Brunswick, and was built in 1887.

"Mr. L. Gildmacher will, in about two weeks, commence clearing away the wooden buildings on the corner of Fourth and West streets (the southwest corner of Fourth and Broadway) preparatory to the erection of a brick building 60x75 feet. The building will be one-story and contain three stores. This will be a splendid improvement for Fourth street, the main street of the town."

JOHNNIE, GET YOUR GUN

"Mr. John Day of Bakersfield, paid us a visit this week. Mr. Day is the champion quail shot of the coast. From the 15th of September last to the 15th of January he killed and shipped 6,000 dozen quail to San Francisco and Chicago. Of these, 600 dozen were killed in Kern county, 1300 dozen in Santa Barbara county and the balance in Los Angeles county."

THEM GOOD OLD DAYS

March 26, 1881:

"If the lady from Santa Ana who, a few days since, lost a $50 bill in the store of Mr. J. C. Bright, Los Angeles, will send her address to Mr. Bright, the money will be forwarded to her. It was found shortly after her departure."

What's the moral? Darned if I know. I never had a $50 bill.

START OF THE BIG BOOM

"On Monday evening last (March 21, 1881) the first through train from the east, over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads, pulled into Los Angeles. There were 8-passenger coaches, well filled."

OLD-TIME WRECK

"Last Monday night about 11 o'clock a fearful smashup occurred in town. Mr. Frazer was moving 16 stands of bees to Trabuco canyon and just before reaching Santa Ana the driver, Mr. Morris, dropped one line. The four horses became frightened and commenced running, striking a post in front of the Faulkner house. (Northwest corner of Fourth and Ross.) The wagon upset and the horses became detached and were stopped by running into a fence near town. The horses were not hurt, the wagon but slightly broken and but few hives of bees smashed. Geo. McGuire one of three on the wagon, was thrown a considerable distance and badly smashed about the head and face."

And they had no radio to broadcast it.

WHAT KIND IS THAT?

"Mr. W. H. Spurgeon has our thanks for a beautiful cluster of oranges presented us last week. The oranges were of the Konah variety, 10 in number, and of excellent flavor."

April 2, 1881:

"Mr. S. W. Preble of Tustin, who four years ago purchased an unimproved tract of land there, has now 150 orange trees in bearing and he will gather this season 20,000 oranges. He has a beautiful home place created in a comparatively short time."

This is the present home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nau on Prospect avenue, Mrs. Nau being a daughter of Mr. Preble.

WHO'S NEXT?

"Mr. J. N. Hewes of Tustin presented us last Saturday with a cluster of oranges, the largest and finest we have seen this season. The oranges were nine in number of the Konah variety, and were of excellent flavor."

Don't sound any better than Mr. Spurgeon's bunch.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

April 9, 1881:

"We are glad to know that sufficient funds have been procured to secure the material for the construction of the Methodist church here, and that the same will be purchased next week. The site of the church, on the corner of Main and Second streets was procured and paid for some time since."

A FAST TRAIN

"As the Santa Ana train was approaching Anaheim last Tuesday, the engineer noticed a man on the track. He whistled repeatedly but the man paid no attention, and continued in a dog trot in front of the engine. As the train was running quite fast it was found impossible to stop it before the man was reached, although the engineer whistled lustily 'down brakes.' In a few moments a hat and cane went up in one direction and a portion of a body in another. As soon as the train was brought to a halt all hands began a search for the supposed mangled body. What was the astonishment of all to behold a man lying stretched out upon the pilot of the engine, his head leaning against the boiler. He was quickly removed, taken into the station and upon examination was found to be none the worse for his adventure. Though stunned by the shock, the man, whose name was Bohn, soon recovered and walked off. As he was being removed from the pilot he sleepily ejaculatd, 'Now quit yer foolin'.'"

And still we are asked to believe in evolution. Men of this age are soft and mushy compared to that. What a grunt and groan artist that fellow would have been.

I think next week I should check up again on the development of this region, as I notice some very interesting figures supplied by Mr. Waite along this line. And I see another old-time ball game in the offing, between Orange and Gospel Swamp, with runs a plenty on both sides. Until then, with the best of wishes for you and me both, I remain as ever. —The OLD TIMER.

H. B. CHILDREN IN MOVIES

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Several dancing numbers in a new series of motion pictures will be played by three local youngsters getting their first "break" in Hollywood. They are Misses Nadine Loy, 11, her sister, Bonnie Colleen Loy, 12, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Loy, 908 Magnolia, and Russell Olsen, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Olsen, 610 Ninth street. Marvin Crawford, 16, of Santa Ana, is the other member of the quartette of dancers.

All Star Productions, Inc., of Hollywood, signed the talented children recently to appear in their latest picture entitled "Kid Carnival." For the past three weeks they have been rehearsing and will "shoot" the first scenes next week, according to Mrs. Loy.

In addition to the dancing acts of the quartette, Bonnie Colleen has another part in a Winter Wonderland skit. Miss Estin Burke's pupils are providing most of the talent for the production.

Should the picture prove a success, the company has agreed to sign the children for 12 more features along the same lines as "Kid Carnival."

LEGION HEADS ARE ELECTED

GARDEN GROVE.—Garden Grove American Legion post elected E. L. Marr commander for the coming year at a meeting held Wednesday evening at the Legion hall. Other officers elected were Bryan Jones, first vice-commander; J. A. Rojas, second vice-commander; Jay Estep, sergeant-at-arms; Edward Miller, chaplain and B. A. Liebermann, historian.

Delegates named to the state convention at Fresno August 12, 13 and 14 were Mr. Marr, Mr. Liebermann and H. T. Thorpe and the alternates Mr. Jones, Harry Hall and Clair McConnell.

Mr. Liebermann, recently elected 21st district president, announced the next Fifth area Legion meeting for Sunday, July 28, at Oceanside and the Orange county Legion council meeting at San Juan Capistrano, July 26 and urged all members to attend.

C. P. Bryan, fire warden of the post, announced that arrangements are being made for immediate distribution to motorists of this area of pamphlets he had just received from the state fire warden at Sacramento.

The committees on Boy Scouts, child welfare and community betterment gave their annual reports. Plans were discussed for a party for members and their friends soon.

COUNCIL PLANS BREAKWATER

SEAL BEACH.—Adoption of plans and specifications for construction of an $82,000 breakwater at the western entrance to Anaheim Landing Bay were made at yesterday afternoon's special session of the Seal Beach city council. The plans were drawn and submitted by City Engineer Victor Hayes.

Burr Brown, city attorney, was authorized to file an application for a Federal loan and grant on the proposed $54,500 water system. Seal Beach has already voted a $30,000 bond issue, and Mayor E. J. Hughes will ask the FEA division of the PWA for a $24,500 cash grant.

Engineer Hayes will receive 6 per cent of the total cost of the construction of both the water plant and the breakwater, according to a provision of a resolution. Three per cent will be paid when plans are completed, and the other 3 per cent when the work is finished. Hayes had asked for 8 per cent.

W. S. Knighton was re-elected fire chief at the annual election. Other officers re-elected were: Fred Thomas, assistant chief, Arvel Glenn, captain and first aid captain; Pete Ekberg, captain; Ray Wilkinson, lieutenant and secretary-treasurer, and Earl Whittington replaced James Marousek as lieutenant.

NETHERLANDS CATHOLICS IN POWER

THE HAGUE, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Queen Wilheimina charged D. P. Aalberse, Catholic party leader, with the formation of a new cabinet today, constituted on as broad a base as possible.

The Catholic leader was received by the 54-year-old queen today after Premier Hendryk Colijn presented his resignation in the political and financial crisis.

After accepting the resignations of Colijn's ministers, the queen empowered the former premier to take whatever steps necessary, pending the formation of a new cabinet, for defense of the guilder.

The Catholic party, headed by Aalberse, is represented by 28 of the chamber's 100 members, and its leader therefore was forced to seek support outside his ranks.

The ministers presented their resignations to the queen last night after the Bank of The Netherlands raised its discount rate from 5 to 6 per cent in a determined effort to keep the guilder on the gold standard.

Skirvin Service Station Adds New Tire and Battery Lines

Above is the C. J. Skirvin service station at First and Sycamore streets, which has just added Diamond tires and Willard batteries, products of Herbert L. Miller, Inc., to its extensive service. The Skirvin organization has been in business here for a number of years.

The Herbert L. Miller, Inc., Diamond tire and Willard battery distributors for Orange county, has made another affiliation with the C. J. Skirvin service station at First and Sycamore streets. The Skirvin organization will handle the products of the Miller corporation, consisting of the well known Diamond tires and Willard batteries.

Mr. Miller considers the affiliation of Mr. Skirvin with the Miller products as important. "C. J.," as he is familiarly known, has been in the tire and service station business for many years. He has fought the game though lean years and met all competition with quality merchandise. Miller is proud of the Skirvin organization because it refuses to exaggerate, and delivers what it promises.

Within the past few months Mr. Skirvin has strengthened his position by the association of Max Gowdy with the tire business. Mr. Gowdy is a pioneer in this line and knows both tires and people. His dependable representation of merchandise is added strength to the C. J. Skirvin organization.

PLAYGROUND IS BEACH PLAN

SUNSET BEACH.—Establishment of an Orange County Beach playground on the ocean front at Sunset Beach is receiving unanimous support of local citizens today, it was announced by J. A. Armitage, pioneer realtor and developer who is heading the drive. Playground equipment similar to that already being enjoyed at Huntington Beach and being installed at Newport and Balboa beaches, is the aim of the campaign.

The swimming pool is the lagoon running beside the coast highway between Tenth and Eleventh streets and has long been a favorite splashing spot for Sunset Beach bathers. Armitage once constructed a float with a diving board in the middle of the lagoon and placed several small boats there for the public's use.

Since the strip of beach here is the only county-owned stretch along the entire coast, county aid in securing the playground equipment will be petitioned, Armitage pointed out.

TOMMY AND DANO DRAW

SACRAMENTO, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Lieut. Jack Kennedy, referee, last night stopped a sensational fight between Young Tommy and Pablo Dano, Filipino 118 pounders, in the last minute of the tenth round of a contest in which Tommy apparently had won seven rounds. Kennedy called it a draw.

The referee said he could not penalize Dano because of the handicap of a bad cut on the head inflicted as a result of a butt.

CARDS HIT COASTER

ST. LOUIS, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Dizzy from their coaster ride up and down the National league brackets, the world champion Cardinals turned eastward today.

Monday they were the rampaging red birds, riding over Bill Terry's weary Giants. Tuesday they rode on the heights, but after two hours at the top their vehicle dipped. Wednesday the Cardinals' coaster took another dip—and even Dizzy Dean stopped talking. Yesterday their car jumped the track and the ride ended with the Cards below both New York and Chicago.

STARS, OLIVE STAGE 'DEATH BATTLE'

Combing the sports news with a fine-tooth comb . . . and picking out a few bits of dandruff:

PAPA BAER SPEAKS FOR THE FAMILY

There will be no tripping to the altar for Buddy Baer—at least while the kid brother of the former heavyweight champion is still in the fight racket. You can take the rather dependable authority of Buddy's father for that.

When Papa Jacob heard reports that the Livermore lion was engaged to a Chicago girl he let it be known what the head of the family thinks about the subject of marriage for prize fighters.

"Look what happened to Max, going off and getting himself wedded. Fighters shouldn't be married. They have to hike around the country, they worry about affairs at home, they have little tiffs with their mates and then their ring work is slowed up. Nothing but a lot of grief. I've laid down the law and Buddy listens to what I say."

PURELY SHORT HAIRS AMONG THE COMBINGS

Faster horses and better jockeys are promised for the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona . . . because of the closing of Agua Caliente . . . the meet starts there September 13 . . . there will be 14 events daily and purses are as high as $1,500 . . . Here's new inspiration for the duffers . . . play like everything and if you get to be a champ you may get to talk to the president . . . Lawson Little, America's champion of English amateur golf, did it yesterday . . .

A new world's swimming mark was hung up yesterday by Horshi Negami at Tokyo . . . Negami covered the 400 meters in 4:41.4, clipping five seconds from the record held by Shozo Makimo and serving notice that the little brown boys will be tougher next year in the Olympics than they were in 1932 . . . and that means tough with a couple of capital T's . . . This Negashami, incidentally, is considered the weakest link in a team of Japanese that will tangle with an invading American squad soon . . .

TROUBLE IN BERLIN IS PREDICTED

We predict trouble between Nazis and Jew athletes at or before the Olympic games . . . their continued discrimination toward Catholic youth organizations that sponsor athletic activities is big black handwriting on the wall . . . Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic union, said today that if reports he had heard of German discrimination against Jewish athletes were substantiated he personally would vote against United States' participation in the games at Berlin . . . wish Bill Henry, who is over there for The Times, could sneak out some dirt on what the situation really is . . .

Appointment of George H. Payne to a seat on the state athletic commission reminds me of a hunch I have that Chairman Dr. Harry Martin's days on that board of arbiters are definitely numbered . . . everywhere, in gyms, rings and on the streets, antagonism against "Mrs. Louella Parsons" is going . . . he's the husband of a yammering movie columnist by that name . . .

Martin may lose his chairmanship as the first slip on the toboggan Saturday when the body meets in Los Angeles . . .

ALLISON GETS JOB OF TAKING PERRY

One press service went absolutely wild trying to have Sidney Wood named as a singles player on the Davis Cup team for the challenge round matches starting against England Saturday . . . even sent out a premature story to the effect, only to have to retract it later when Wilmer Allison, conqueror of Heiner Henkel, got his job back and will play with Don Budge . . .

At that the backers of Wood have some reason to yowl . . . Reports from across the Atlantic say the blond New Yorker is in grand condition, has gained eight pounds since reaching England . . . Also, if Wood were on the singles team, Allison could concentrate on the doubles when he and Johnny Van Ryn only barely snatched from Germany . . . but Allison says he can beat both Fred Perry and Bunny Austin . . . so they're letting him try . . .

U. S. Olympics Head Says Things O. K. in Berlin

CHICAGO, Friday, July 26. (AP) Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, said today he knew of no racial or religious reasons why the United States should not be represented in the Olympic games at Berlin in 1936.

"I haven't heard of anything to indicate discrimination against athletes of any race or religion since last year when there were reports that Jewish athletes might not be permitted to represent Germany in the games," he said. "That question was answered by assurances from German political and sports leaders that there would be no racial, religious or political interference."

"I don't know what charges of discrimination Mr. Mahoney (Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic union) had in mind yesterday when he said he would if there were substantiated, vote again participation at Berlin."

M. E. South Seniors 9, Commercial National 0 (forfeit).

M. E. South Juniors 14, Carpenters 3.

Paying the penalty for using Edward Bristow, an ineligible pitcher, Commercial National bank's softball team was forced to forfeit four games in the Santa Ana City league today.

President Kenneth Morrison's commission met before game-time last night, and allowed the 20-30 club's protest that Bristow should be ruled out because he pitched part of a game in the County league in June, which was contrary to City league regulations.

Hopelessly out of the chase, Commercial National employed the ineligible Bristow again last night, and won from the M. E. South Seniors, 6-1. But the result will go down officially as a 9-0 forfeit for the Methodists. M. E. South's Juniors walloped the Carpenters, 14-3, in the other game.

The 20-30's now boast a perfect record after receiving a forfeit from the Bankers, and can win the second-half crown outright with victories over Union Oil and the Elks in the final round next week. The Methodist Seniors may overtake the service boys if Union Oil or the Elks nine pulls an upset. M. E. South has only the weak Carpenters to play next week.

ANAHEIM SUB CHALKS UP GREAT WIN

Westminster Boy Takes Hard Beating During Final Stages

By FRANK ROGERS

Westminster's Wild Bill Wana today is sorry he didn't fight Duke Walani Robello here last night instead of Anaheim's hungry looking Art Hernandez. Hernandez, shoved into the main event when Robello was unable to show, came from behind to take a bloody verdict from Wana in a four-star main event that topped the best boxing card presented here since the 101 highway arena opened.

Hernandez dropped the first round to Wana when he showed ignorance of how to fight a southpaw and walked into the Westminster boy's right punches. Reversing his style, he took the second easily, lost the third by a small margin and wound up by taking the fourth and the vote of the referee and one judge for the decision.

Bloody Battle

It was the bloodiest battle in recent local fight history. Hernandez had battered Wana's mouth early in the going and right after the final round started Wana popped Hernandez over the left eye, causing a steady gush of blood and impairing the Anaheim lad's sight considerably.

Referee Bob White took one look at the cut when fans began fearing for Hernandez' safety, decided there was no danger and stood by to watch the victor sail on to a vicious finish. Blood or no blood Hernandez finished in full stride.

Al Sanchez, 142, got up from taking a nine-count on his knee in the second to punch out a victory over Paul Mesa of Anaheim. Mesa, leaving himself wide open with his free-swinging tactics went down for a nine-toll in the third and barely made it to his feet in time to hear the bell save him from a killing. He never recovered enough to fight off Sanchez who was lucky because Mesa's blows were all well telegraphed.

Parks Licks Chavez

Joie Parks, Westminster, and Johnny Chavez of Santa Ana staged a gruelling to-the-death battle but Parks got a faster start in each round and won by a slim margin.

Anaheim's Don Benzor came back a long way finally to defeat Ishi Watanabi, clever Japanese boy. Down and in bad shape Benzor was saved by the bell in the second, but from then on outrushed Watanabi whose lightning left faded in the latter stages.

Paul Tuxedo, Anaheim, punched out a close win over Tony Lopez, CCCampster, while Tony Torres defeated Tony Monge of Westminster. Rusty Gilmore scored a technical knockout in the third when he unloosed the full power of his guns and left Jack Holt glassy-eyed and unable to hold up his mitts.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO. — Tony Canzoneri, 135, world lightweight champion, outpointed Bobby Pacho, 137½, Los Angeles (10), non-title.

LIVERPOOL, Eng. — Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, NBA featherweight champion, knocked out Seaman Watson, England (2).

Babe Ruth Enters National Amateur Golf Tournament

NEW YORK, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Babe Ruth, having made a successful debut as a tournament golfer, sees no reason why his name should not be among the starters in the national amateur at Cleveland.

"If I can play like this in the rain and at that, a bit careless, I don't see why I shouldn't be able to qualify for the amateur," said the Babe after he missed by only one stroke getting into the championship flight in the Westchester country club's invitation tournament.

"If I can arrange my business affairs I sure intend to give it a try anyway."

It was the rollicking Babe of baseball days who splashed through the rain yesterday for an 81, one stroke in front of Dick Chapman, defending champion.

GIANTS DROP CARDS; RAIN AIDS YANKS

New Yorkers Take Pair From St. Louis, Cubs Move Into Second

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dispelling, temporarily at least, the fears of backers who saw them slipping out of the lead, New York's two baseball teams who hope to stage a "nickel" series, were still clinging to top spot in their respective neighborhoods today. The Giants, threatened by the world's champion Cardinals, won a pair from the St. Louis men yesterday, 3-1 and 13-2, showing the kind of activity that carried them in a breath-taking drive to the top of the heap.

The Yankees, after an unprofitable home stand against the west, still led the American league by a fragment of a percentage point. Their final clash with Detroit was rained out along with the rest of the circuit's schedule.

Series Sets Mark

Before a crowd of 28,500, which helped set a St. Louis attendance record for a week-day series, the Giants put a highly successful conclusion on the series which saw them drop momentarily into second place after losing the first game of Tuesday's twin bill.

Hal Schumacher, beaten once, came back to pitch a brilliant game in yesterday's opener while young Paul Dean faltered just long enough in the fourth to take a beating. The New Yorkers swung their bats with abandon in the second game to sew the game up with a six-run rally in the second inning.

Cubs Move Up

The Cubs moved ahead of St. Louis by knocking off the Dodgers for the fifth straight time, 4 to 2, behind Tex Carlton's five-hit flinging to make it 16 victories in 19 games.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By the Associated Press)

HAL SCHUMACHER, ROY PARMELEE and MEL OTT, Giants—Schumacher and Parmelee pitched brilliantly in double triumph over Cardinals; Ott led attack with two doubles, triple and two singles.

RED LUCAS, Pirates — His pinch hit in ninth drove in winning runs against Phillies.

ALLISON WILL FACE AUSTIN IN CUP PLAY

Don Budge Battles Fred Perry When Davis Matches Open

LONDON, Friday, July 26. (AP)—America's hopes of recapturing the Davis cup, lost in 1927, soared today as Wilmer Allison, veteran Texan, was drawn to meet England's H. W. (Bunny) Austin in the opening singles match of the challenge round, starting tomorrow at Wimbledon.

The second match of the opening day's program will pit Donald Budge, red-headed Californian, against Fred Perry, king of the world's amateurs.

U. S. Chances Good

Their chances of lifting the cup apparently resting entirely on the ability of both Allison and Budge to whip Austin, the Americans were openly delighted by the luck of the draw which gives the 31 year-old Texan his crack at England's second-string singles ace on the first day while he still will be fresh.

Had the draw turned out otherwise, Allison would have had to face the all-but-unbeatable Perry on the opening day and Austin on Tuesday.

Tickled by the turn of events, Joseph W. Wear, America's nonplaying captain, said: "The draw suits us right down to the ground."

To Win Doubles

If Allison should defeat Austin tomorrow, America's chances of regaining the historic tennis trophy would be better than even. Experts figure the American combination of Allison and Van Ryn will win the doubles and count heavily on 19-year-old Budge to topple Austin on Tuesday.

HAIL LOPEZ AS VICIOUS CHAMP

Heralded as the most vicious heavyweight champion wrestler since the heyday of Ed (Strangler) Lewis, Vincent Lopez, the man who pitched Man Mountain Dean out of the ring and incidentally out of the International tournament and the recognized world title, is expected to turn back the challenge of Nick Lutze, powerful and scientific wrestling lifeguard when they clash here Monday night in the best two-out-of-three fall, one-hour main event.

Promoter Sam Sampson yesterday completed his supporting card with the signing of "Jumbo" Jacobs to meet Sergi Kalmikoff; Brother Jonathon to meet Ernie Haynes and Bill Hoolahan to face Tony Felice. Jacobs and Kalmikoff are two of the biggest wrestlers in the game, Jacobs scaling 345 pounds to Kalmikoff's 285.

YOUNG CHAMPS OF SANTA ANA

Jack Gardner, 16-year-old Santa Ana High school cartoonist, presents here one of the latest of a series of drawings which he has been making ever since his junior high school days. Young Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gardner, Santa Ana. Mr. Gardner is president of the Orange County Title company.

COOK LOSES GRID AIDE

Coach Bill Cook may not have an assistant in football down at Santa Ana Junior college next September, and probably will be assigned to direct the basketball and baseball activities of the Dons as well.

These developments have come about through Blanchard Beatty's resignation to accept a position as football coach at Oceanside in September, as announced yesterday.

He replaces Ben Carpenter, former Anaheim coach, who has resigned to assume athletic duties with Red Cross headquarters in Salt Lake City.

Mr. Beatty was employed during the past year as a stock-room clerk by the Santa Ana board of education, and his extensive coaching activities were voluntary, Frank Henderson, superintendent of schools, explained today.

Coach Cook has had an assistant at the junior college most of the time since 1927, but whether or not he receives a successor to Beatty probably will come up for discussion at the next board meeting August 6, when Beatty's resignation will be formally accepted.

DEAN LOSES BOUT

PORTLAND, Ore., Friday, July 26. (AP)—Man Mountain Dean, 317-pound Georgia grappler, fell on his opponent once but on himself twice here last night and lost two of three falls to Hans Steinke, 250, Germany.

Kennedy, Curry Qualify At Palos Verdes

Qualifying with respective scores of 74 and 76, Don Kennedy and Elmer Curry were entered today in the championship flight of the tenth annual Palos Verdes' invitational golf tourney.

Young Kennedy, Southern California junior titleholder, who missed par by three strokes, stood out as one of the featured performers yesterday, He was to face Eddie Nowak, who shot a 77 in the qualifying round, in the tournament proper at 1 p. m. today. Elmer Curry was paired with Henry Rhoads.

LOSERS FACE ELIMINATION FROM RACE

Contest at Bowl Tonight Will Uncover Threat to Beach Squad

With the loser facing certain elimination in the National Night Ball league's second-half pennant scramble, Santa Ana and Olive take to the Municipal bowl diamond at 8:15 o'clock tonight in a contest that will uncover the leading threat to Huntington Beach's Oilers, leading the pack at this point.

Both squads have dropped two games since the Stars sailed in as champions of the first half a few weeks ago.

Both Need Win

Neither nine can afford to lose. Three defeats will set the clubs too far behind Joe Rodgers' flag-bound Oilers with their five consecutive victories, and who will be sitting pretty with another win at Anaheim tonight. Westminster travels to Long Beach for the third tussle.

The return of Ray "Doc" Smith, second-sacker who missed the Anaheim game because of the death of his father, will aid the Stars in their test with Ben Gelker's invaders.

Same Lineup

Santa Ana's lineup will be the same as during their championship reign, with the exception of Shortstop Francis Conrad, who is still out with an injured shoulder. Tom Lacy has been filling in admirably at this infield post.

The starting pitchers will be Jimmy Coates for Santa Ana, Jack Dugan for Olive. If the Stars go into the lead, Pilot Denney may give Joe Hurst, the newcomer from El Centro, another trial. Hurst was driven from the

RIBBING AWAITS COACHES

They Hook Only Bluegill

Fancy ribbing awaits Bill Cole and Bill Cook, those coaching fishermen, upon their return from Big Bear lake.

Invading the popular mountain resort in quest of trout, it seems they have had better luck hooking blue-gill, that tame little fish that entertains an angler's "kiddies while he battles the real sporting fish such as trout," as one old-timer jokingly remarked.

Two of the coaching brethren's closest friends suggest that Cole and Cook teach an angling school for blue-gill. Their experiences with the petite fish the past few days certainly would qualify them. They can always refer to a dictionary if they want to see what a trout looks like, anyway.

TAX LEVY ON LAGUNA IS DENIED

Denial that they plan to wrongfully and unlawfully levy a tax against the Laguna Beach school district to help pay the bonded debt of Tustin Union High school district was contained in the answer filed yesterday by the supervisors and other county officials in an injunction suit started by trustees of the school district.

Several weeks ago John C. Gibson, William J. Harris and Mrs. O. H. Sortwell, as trustees of the Laguna school district, named the supervisors, Auditor W. T. Lambert, Tax Collector John C. Lamb and Treasurer E. B. Trago as defendants in an action seeking an injunction to halt the allegedly impending tax.

In the prayer for an injunction, the school trustees pointed out that the Laguna school district withdrew from the Tustin Union High school district February 1, 1931, for the purpose of establishing a separat high school district. At that time, according to the charge, it was agreed that Tustin would assume all the bonded debt of the Union High school district as soon as Laguna established a four-year high school of its own.

The new Laguna High School district was formed June 10, 1932, and lapsed by order of the board of supervisors July 3, 1933, but was reorganized the following September and a high school established.

Mrs. Walter Abel

It was at the Provincetown theater that Marietta Bitter met Walter Abel. . . . She had starred in college dramatics at Bryn Mawr. . . . But she gave up the stage when she married Abel. . . . She is an accomplished harpist. . . . Has performed on the stage and radio. . . . And is talented in sculpture. . . . A talent probably inherited from her father, Carl Bitter, who was director of the San Francisco and Buffalo expositions. . . . She devotes all her time now to her husband and their two young sons. . . . Likes living in New York but chose Hollywood when her husband had the opportunity to play D'Artagnan in the movie, "The Three Musketeers."

Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati Reds catcher, batted .556 as a pinch hitter between June 13 and July 10. He got five hits in nine pinch appearances in that time.

Illustrious conductors, a dramatic ballet, renowned soloists and an opera in concert form are offered for Hollywood Bowl's Symphonies under the Stars from now until August 3. Pierre Monteux (upper right), foremost French conductor, and Ernest Schelling (upper left) eminent American, share the conducting honors: Nina Koshetz, noted Russian soprano, will sing July 30; Jeannette Vreeland, American soprano (lower left), will sing August 2; Rosa Tentoni (lower right), brilliant young soprano, will sing the name part in "Aida" July 27 supported by Dan Gridley, Clemence Gifford, Richard Bonelli and others, Pietro Cimini conducting. Schelling's thrilling "Victory Ball" will be done as a ballet by Zemach, August 1, the composer himself conducting. The Bowl, scene of the celebrated summer concerts, is shown in the center.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

BILL M'KINLEY HITS .455

Reboin, Coates Near Lead

Gaining steadily since the first half, Santa Ana's distinquished pitcher—Jimmy Coates—is within 12 points of the National Night Ball league's premier hitter, Bill McKinley of Huntington Beach, according to official averages announced today.

McKinley, the circuit's best all-around third-baseman, has annexed 35 hits in 77 efforts, and boasts a remarkable percentage of .455, just two points ahead of Olive's formidable Al Reboin, who has garnered 39 safe blows in 86 attempts.

Jim Now Third

Coates was in seventh position at the end of the first-half season July 2, but now occupies third place, excluding his pitching teammate George Stevens, who is the official leader at .545. Stevens, however, has been to the plate only 11 times.

Other players who have progressed noticeably are Randolph Bell of Olive, from .324 to .400; Jean Arroues of Anaheim, .352 to .379; Fred Wiseman of Anaheim, .353 to .371; Nan Coots of Anaheim, .421 to .433; and Francis Conrad of Santa Ana; .320 to .367.

Manager Tom Denney's Stars possess nine players above the .300 mark.

TRIBE SMASHES SACS, 10-2

(By the Associated Press)

"Everybody hits" seems to be the battle cry of the Seattle Indians since their new found batting strength daily makes them stronger threats to the pace-setting San Francisco Seals.

The Tribesmen all unlimbered their big guns against Art Herring as they blasted out a 10-2 decision over Sacramento last night. Four circuit blows, two by Jerry Donovan, helped the Indians pile up their big score.

Seals Win Third

Behind the airtight pitching of Win Ballou the San Francisco Seals took the third straight game from the Missions, 4-1. The Reds' only run came when Ballou, after fielding Mike Frankovich's slow roller, heaved the ball into right field allowing Fred Berger to come home.

Oakland halted Portland's winning streak by downing the Ducks 8-2 in 11 innings. The Acorns tied up the score at two all with a pair of runs in the sixth frame and fought for four scoreless innings before staging a six-run rampage.

Angels Rally

Los Angeles came from behind in the eighth to tie things up and then pushed across five runs in the ninth to defeat Hollywood 8-3. Mike Meola hung up his thirteenth victory of the season and batted in four of his team's runs.

MRS. MacMULLEN AND MRS. ROBINSON WIN GOLF HONORS

Golfing honors were earned by Mrs. B. J. MacMullen and Mrs. L. H. Robinson in two tournaments for ladies at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday.

Touring 18 holes, but counting only the even ones, Mrs. MacMullen compiled a score of 45-10—35. Mrs. L. J. Bushard and Mrs. L. H. Robinson tied for second with respective cards of 44-8—36 and 40-4—36.

Mrs. Robinson won the blind-hole play from Mrs. R. W. Weston and Mrs. C. V. Doty. She shot a 19 and her opponents a 20 over holes Nos. 1, 6, 7 and 10.

AGED PERSONS APPLY HERE FOR PENSIONS AT RATE OF 10 A DAY

EXPECT 1200 ON ROLLS IN COUNTY

Welfare Department's Budget Increased To Meet Costs

With 392 persons receiving old age relief in Orange county under the old set-up, Welfare Director B. V. Curry expects the number to reach an approximate 1200 under provisions of the new state law which becomes effective September 15.

Persons eligible to receive aid under the liberalized provisions of the new law already are registering at his office at the rate of 10 daily, he reported today.

In predicting that the number of persons in this county receiving old age relief would reach 1200, Mr. Curry insisted that this figure is only an estimate and is based on no survey. He said it would be impossible to tell at this time how many persons in the county would take advantage of provisions of the new law.

Aid for the aged cost the taxpayers of Orange county approximately $65,000 last year and, anticipating a sharp increase this year, due to the reduction of age limits and other liberalizing phases, Mr. Curry has included $195,000 in his 1935-36 budget for this purpose.

He pointed out that while the state pays half of the pension bill and the county the other half, the county must finance the entire operation for six months. The county makes the monthly payments and each six months receives a warrant from the state covering half the bill.

Aged persons seeking relief file their applications at the county welfare department and after investigation as to eligibility their claims are certified to the state for acceptance or refusal.

Under the new act for relief of the aged the age limit of eligibility was reduced from 70 to 65 years, a minimum payment of $20 monthly established and the property restriction was liberalized.

ELECTION MAIL BILL IS $546

Orange county's postage bill for mailing out sample ballots for the state election August 13 totalled $546.75, County Clerk J. M. Backs said today. The sample ballots were placed in the mail yesterday morning and the stamp bill turned over to County Auditor W. T. Lambert.

There are three state proposals on the ballot for the coming election. One is to permit the state to borrow money in anticipation of tax revenues; another would permit a construction program for state institutions; and the third is to provide a water supply for the state hospital at Napa.

PHYLLIS HAMNER IS HOSTESS AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Phyllis Irene Hamner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hamner, 1201 South Birch street, entertained a group of her friends at a matinee theater party yesterday. Afterward, they returned to the Hamner home and were served ice cream and birthday cake at a table gay with green and yellow party appointments.

Guests included Mabel Casteix, Dorothy Valentine, Zelma Clydeshipp and Glenna Jean Thayer. Mrs. Hamner accompanied the group to the theater.

PENSION ACT DETAILS ARE TOLD BY WELFARE CHIEF

Provisions of the old age security act and eligibility requirements were outlined today by County Welfare Director B. V. Curry. In his statement, which follows, Mr. Curry corrects many erroneous impressions that have obtained in relation to the act:

Many erroneous impressions exist with reference to the old age security act, known as assembly bill 767 passed by the last session of the California legislature, effective September 15, 1935. Clarification of some parts of it may be helpful.

Until September 15, those eligible under the existing state aid law will be accepted as applicants thereunder, and after the effective date of the new law will be given such benefits thereunder as they are entitld to.

Applications under the new law are now being taken by this office. They may not be approved, however, until after September 15. This department will proceed with the investigation of these applications as promptly as possible and in the same manner approve those eligible and pass them to the board of supervisors for final adjudication immediately after September 15.

The Requirements

Documentary evidence to support the following necessities is required:

A—Age. Under the new law is reduced to 65 years or over.

B—Applicants must be citizens of the United States but the former period of 15 years citizenship is not required. Thus, a foreign-born resident of California who had not been naturalized more than two years but had resided in California for 15 years or more would be eligible.

C—Residence. Fifteen years state residence is still required. There can be no change in this requirement until federal aid is available and that federal aid cannot be available until legislature providing for it is enacted. Such legislation is not yet through the national congress.

One-Year Residence

D—One year residence is still necessary in the county but if applicant has no county residence and is otherwise eligible, aid may be paid entirely by the state until county residence is established.

E—The provision of the present law with reference to care in institutions is not changed.

F—Relatives of the degree of husband and wife, son or daughter, father or mother, are still responsible under the law if financially able to support the aged persons.

G—The provision of the present law relating to the transfer of property to gain eligibility disqualifying the applicant still attains.

The Property Question

H—Upon the receipt of aid, under a provision of the new law, it is the duty of this department to send to the county recorder a certificate of that fact. Such certificate establishes a mortgage against the property of the applicant. Press reports have heretofore indicated that property up to certain amounts is exempted under the law. This is a misunderstanding on the part of the informant. The law, properly interpreted by the attorney general, expressly states that no property is exempted but that those who have property in value not exceeding $3000 for real property and $500 in personal property are eligible to receive the benefits of this enactment, if their income is not sufficient to maintain them.

The department of social welfare of Orange county as soon as it is possible will investigate all applications for state aid under the new law and admit those eligible through the proper channels as quickly after September 15 as is feasible. A large number of applications are now being received.

Experience with the provision of the law may, of course, bring modification of the understandings herein quoted by the attorney general from time to time. The above interpretations are the best information available now.

ACCIDENT HAS POLICE PUZZLED

An accident at Pine and South Main streets last midnight had officers puzzled today as to its cause. Arriving at the scene they found that a truck belonging to the Cal-Ray-Bakery company of Glendale had turned over. The driver of the truck was missing.

Witnesses told officers the driver had hitch-hiked a ride toward Huntington Beach after the accident. There were no other cars involved in the accident, and so far as is known no one was injured.

Now Puff and his friends get a terrible scare.
The lifeboat shoots upward—it hangs in the air—
And then it UPSETS like a flimsy old box.

400,000 GET FREE CARE IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Friday, July 26. (AP)—One of the most extensive programs of socialized medicine ever undertaken in a modern city was launched in Los Angeles today as 4359 physicians, surgeons, dentists, osteopaths and druggists began ministering to 400,000 persons on relief rolls.

The medical service will be paid for by the SERA at fixed rates which, although below those usually charged in private practice, nonetheless are sufficiently high to pay more than the cost of service.

Nothing Lacking

Under the county's plan no person on the relief rolls will lack any detail of medical, dental or pharmaceutical care. If there is any illness in the home the social case inspector will be notified.

Any unemployed person who breaks his spectacles can have new lenses ground. If any child is undernourished a public health nurse will prescribe special food and a SERA check will pay for it.

Dr. Louis Boonshaft, veteran public health official and medical director of the SERA in the county, is in charge of the program. While surgery of a minor nature will be done by doctors on the SERA panel, major operations will be performed at the county hospital.

Help Expectant Mothers

All types of dental work will be provided except the manufacture of new dentures or false teeth. Expectant mothers will be given pre-natal service. If the mother desires to go to a hospital arrangements will be made to send her to the Los Angeles general hospital for the delivery.

The Ethiopian Nation

BY EDWIN O. COLBECK

"The Queen of Sheba"

Ethiopia was a great nation at the time of Solomon. The Queen of Sheba was an Ethiopian. She came to hear Solomon's wisdom and the wealth of his kingdom. Her verdict was that the half had not been told. She gave Solomon many elaborate presents, and in return he gave her—a son. We cannot admire the king for being a sexual pervert.

However, it brings us face to face with the historical background for Emperor Halle Salassie claiming to be descended from the tribe of Judah. For 3,000 years they have traced their lineage from Solomon. It is interesting to remember that Ecclesiates was a play, written about the beauty of his Ethiopian wife, whom he had imported as a national courtesy, in recognition of the visit of the Queen of Sheba.

The men from this ancient empire have played an important part in the Biblical record. It was an Ethiopian servant who rescued Jeremiah the prophet from his slimy dungeon. It was an Ethiopian by the name of Simon of Cyrene who carried the cross of Jesus. It was an Ethiopian by the name of Simeon the Black who ordained Paul to go out as a Christian missionary. It was an Ethiopian eunuch whom Philip baptized, that carried the Gospel of the Christ into the middle of Africa. It was Africa—not Palestine nor Rome—that cradled early Christianity. It was not until the Mohammedan invasion that Christianity was wiped out of Northern Africa.

Strange as it may seem Ethiopia escaped the massacre. The great deserts saved the Ethiopian empire from the great controversies of the Christian church. She has kept her original faith in an unbroken line until the present time. The Ethiopian church was busy spreading the Gospel of the Christ, while the rest of the world were dividing into the Eastern, Western and Jerusalem schisms.

Tomorrow: Emperor Haile Selassie.

EDITOR FLAYS PRESIDENT, NEW DEAL

LOS ANGELES, Friday, July 26. (AP)—Hurling a stinging rebuke at the Roosevelt New Deal administration, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, today had advocated a balanced national budget as the key plank of the 1936 republican presidential platform.

Colonel Knox, prominently mentioned as a possible G. O. P. presidential candidate, charged in an address last night before the Los Angeles county republican assembly that President Roosevelt had betrayed his oath of office.

Accuses President

He accused the president and his advisers of promoting enactment of laws "for the deliberate purpose of undermining the power and prestige of the supreme court."

"With a full sense of the meaning of my words," Colonel Knox declared, "I ask, are such acts in accord with the sacred oath taken not only to defend and to protect, but to preserve the constitution? Upon what food does this, our Caesar, feed? What madness has seized upon him? Does he not see how dangerously close this comes to conspiracy to break down our institution of government?

"I charge the president and his advisers with deliberately promoting the enactment of a group of laws which they have every reason to expect will be declared unconstitutional as soon as they reach the supreme court," he continued.

Deliberate Purpose

"With so doing for the deliberate purpose of undermining the power and prestige of the supreme court, and of precipitating attacks upon it in the hope that its unique power, as a coordinate branch in the American government, to pass upon the constitutionality of laws enacted by the legislative branch, will be destroyed."

TO OPEN ROAD SATURDAY

The new Sulphur Slide cutoff on the Santa Ana canyon road will be formally opened at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. A ribbon stretched across the highway will be cut, marking the completion and opening of the road.

The event has been arranged by George Kellogg of Yorba Linda, president of the Associated chambers of commerce and secretary of the Imperial Highway association. There will be several short talks. Frank Tetley of Riverside will officiate at the ceremony.

The cutoff eliminates a winding grade and shortens the traveling time through the canyon.

Dr. George A. Warmer, Sr., Presented New Automobile at Methodist Reception

Congregation Pays Honor to Pastor

Minister Speechless Over Award Culminating 8th Year in Santa Ana

It was a deeply moved Rev. Dr. George A. Warmer, sr., who accepted his congregation's gift of appreciation—a new Plymouth de luxe sedan—at a reception honoring the eighth year in the pulpit of the First Methodist church at the church social hall last night.

Presentation of the gift at this time just precedes Dr. Warmer's trip to the University of North Dakota where he will give a series of addresses to the summer institute of preachers at Wesley college from August 6 to 14. He is to get the car at Detroit for the return trip.

More than 400 persons thronged the social hall main floor and balcony. In the front row of the audience sat the pastor's children, Charles, Craig, Florence and the Rev. Dr. George A. Warmer, jr., and Mrs. Warmer, jr. Beside the pastor on the stage sat his wife and small daughter, Jean. The entire affair was a tribute to them.

Announcement of the award by Mr. Vogt left Dr. Warmer, famed for his extemporaneous addresses and oratory, "speechless and more eager to turn a handspring than to give a talk," he said.

Simultaneous with the award of the new car to Dr. Warmer, sr., the church presented the pastor's old car to his son, Dr. Warmer, jr., recently apointed to the Magnolia Park church near Burbank.

"I hope that 30 years from now I'll have a congregation that thinks enough of me to include a young son of mine in a proposition like this," was the tribute young George paid his father in acceptance of the used car from the church.

Fred P. Jayne acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion. The choir sang "The Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tanhauser." Arras Christie Bugge sang "Where E're you Walk" by Handel and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Miss Eva Ramsey accompanied. Mrs. Charles Van Wyk sang "Birds on the Wing" by Nutting and "Coming Through the Rye," Miss Esther Vogt accompanying.

Following the program, new members of the church were honored at a reception. Punch and wafers were served by a committee of the Dorcas society under Mrs. Richard Cribaro, including Mrs. Lulu Blackburn, president, Mrs. J. B. Robinson and Mrs. W. H. Pranke.

In the reception line beside the pastor and his family were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allen, Mr. and Mrs. E. Beamer, Mrs. Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Vogt and Mrs. G. E. Bruns.

Young Girls Rushing Into Matrimony Warned by Letter From One Who Wed Wrong Man

By MARY STODDARD

Listen, girls! You can rush out into the kitchen and make a pan of fudge—you can fly down to the beach and plunge headlong into the water—you can spin around the boulevards as fast as the speed limits will permit—you can dash down and buy that new hat—in fact, you can rush in and out of almost everything, but don't RUSH into matrimony!

Here's a letter from a girl who would give anything if she'd only waited:

Dear Miss Stoddard: When I was only 14, I met and fell in love with a young man of 19. We were in love right from the start, but my mother did not approve of him because he was a sailor and a southerner. Everything possible was done to break us up. After four years, because things were made so miserable for us, I gave him up rather than see him unhappy from the treatment given him by my relatives. I thought I could forget him. In the next two years I filled my life so full of gay parties and dances that I was sure I had succeeded in ruling my heart. I married a boy from my own neighborhood of whom my folks approved.

That was over two years ago and since I have settled down to a quiet home life, I have found how utterly cruel it is to every one concerned, for I know I can never forget my real love. My husband is handsome and the kindest, most considerate and ambitious young man any girl could wish for. I have made him happy, and for that I am thankful. Yes, I love him, but not with the love I have for my first sweetheart. He has never married and his sister says he never will.

I just can't forget him. I have tried so hard, but I wake up every night thinking of him. Even though my husband has given me a lovely little home and beautiful furniture, I am still in love with someone else.

Of course my husband will never know. I just couldn't break his heart, although I broke my own and another man's because my family didn't like him. So think well, young girls, and don't marry until you are sure. You have time, as 19 or 20 is young enough for a girl to marry. But don't ever let someone else tell you whom you should wed.

It is better to go through life with the man you really love than to do as I have done.

Gay Pottery Presented Honoree

Bright-hued pottery for the new home she will have in Berkeley after her marriage Monday evening in the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Glendale, to Bernard Sharpley was presented to Miss Mary Louise Niedergall of Santa Ana by a group of her friends who attended a shower for her Wednesday evening in the home of Miss Charlene Kyte, 1430 Spurgeon street. Individual red heart nutbaskets added color to the tables. Heart-shaped ices were served with decorated cake. The honoree was givn a miniature bride's cake topped with a bridal couple.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women. If there is a question that interests or puzzles you, suggest it, and we will collect opinions on it for you!

In traveling, do you favor "seeing America first" or going outside to travel in farther parts?

Mrs. Harry G. Huffman: I have not traveled much since living in California—it's so much nicer here than almost anywhere else, it's rather difficult to leave. But I plan to see America first.

Mrs. J. Fred Reyer: By all means, a person should see his own country first! All I have seen has been very interesting and very worthwhile.

Mrs. Henry S. Williams: Having seen so much of the United States, I'm in favor of seeing foreign parts. So far, a trip through the Panama canal to Havana has been my longest jaunt away from here. There are so many interesting places here, though, that I believe we should surely see America first.

Mrs. F. P. Nickey: To be good Americans, we should see America first. Then when we are in other countries, we have something by which to judge and contrast what we see. Our national parks are especially splendid and worthwhile visiting.

IRENE BOYER TROTH ANNOUNCEMENT IS PARTY INCENTIVE

Not until a table decorated to announce the news was revealed, did guests at the formal bridge party given Wednesday evening by Mrs. George Wells and her daughter, Miss Pauline Wells, at 2020 Victoria drive, know that the engagement of Miss Irene Boyer to Robert U. Smith was to be announced.

Although the date of the wedding was not told, Miss Boyer said it would be an August or September event. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morris of 2011 North Ross. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith, Sr., of Kemmerer, Wyo.

Given Three Rings

Receiving congratulations of the guests, Miss Boyer displayed a slim yellow gold band set with diamonds, given her by her fiance, as the first of a set of three rings, the other two being a wedding ring and a wedding present ring, which will serve as a guard for the first two.

The honoree was wearing a frilly green mousseline de soie formal with a corsage of yellow rosebuds sent her by Mr. Smith. Miss Wells, a long-time friend, was dressed in white lace, trimmed in dusty pink taffeta with a corsage of pink souvenir rosebuds. Mrs. Morris wore blue chiffon and Mrs. Wells, pink crepe trimmed in lace, with corsages of gardenias sent them by Mr. Smith.

At the close of the evening, Miss Boyer's mother and fiance joined the party.

Mrs. Forrest Bennett took high honors at bridge.

Bride Graduated Here

A graduate of Santa Ana Junior college, Miss Boyer was a member of Spinsters there. Mr. Smith followed a year at Menlo Junior college with attendance at Wyoming university where he was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. He is employed at present as assistant service manager of Knox Brothers.

Present at the party were Mmes. Morris, Palmer Stoddard, Allen R. Howell, John S. Taylor, jr., Forrest Bennett, E. L. Smith, jr., Kermit W. Maynard, Wells, and the Misses Evelyn Fairley, Lucile Howell, Eunice Bright, Erline Farmer, Wells and Boyer.

Camp Offers Excitement to Girls

What it takes to be a success at camp was unfolded by three girls this week before they start off Monday morning for another two weeks' at Camp Rokili, Girl Scout camp in the San Bernardino mountains.

Eight girls to a cabin, the scouts find themselves meeting new girls upon arrival at Rokili.

"That's what's fun about camp," proffered Jean Russick, who is leaving for her fourth year's stay. "You meet girls from Tustin, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove, Santa Ana, Orange and Newport Beach troops that you've never known before." Bethel Haven and Ruth Jane Mathews, her companions, agreed.

Duties Required

Camp duties are required of each girl at Rokili, the girls declared.

"They soon learn to do their share, too. What if they don't? Well one year we were going to duck them in the swimming pool only the councillors wouldn't let us. But they all get the idea that they have to help with the work," the girls said, glancing meaningfully at each other.

A prize offered for the cleanest cabin is an incentive for some of the girls. None of the three had ever won it, they said.

Divided into squads, the girls have 1½ days a week when they don't have any tasks. Otherwise they work on committees to prepare the vegetables, set the tables, do the dishes, clean up the dining room, water the ground, and clean the lavatories.

"Rest hour is the hardest time," Bethel volunteered. "We're not supposed to talk or even read, except for the first half-hour. Most of us take a book along and hide it when we hear someone coming."

Few Are Homesick

Too busy to get homesick, most of the girls adjust themselves easily to camp routine, the girls declared. Although there's a camp doctor on hand, few of the girls ever need aid.

"Sometimes when the girls first come they do get a little bit homesick and say they don't feel well. After they've been put to bed for a half-day or so they get over it," Jean declared from her three years of camp experience.

Hiking, nature craft, campfires, swimming, good books at the library, letter writing, dramatics, first aid, hobby groups, and scores of other interesting things are available to the scouts.

Final registration for the scout camp was to have been made at the scout home by 5 o'clock today. Troop leaders will accept late registration fees until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was announced today.

JAPANESE EFFECT SEEN IN X. N. O. PARTY AT HOME

Twinkling Japanese lanterns hung in strands among the trees in the backyard of the R. A. McPhee home on West Camille street lent an oriental atmosphere to the X. N. O. club's party Wednesday evening.

Supper was cooked on the open grill in the garden. The rest of the evening was spent in sitting around the fireplace, talking.

The next meeting of the club will be August 7, a pot-luck luncheon and a picnic and steak bake for the husbands in the evening, at Anaheim park.

Present were Messrs. and Mesdames E. E. Edwards, W. Ray Edwards, A. R. Bennett, E. E. Lentz and son, Lowell, E. E. Perry and R. A. McPhee and their son, Billy Bob, members and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Trott and Mrs. Trott's mother, Mrs. J. T. Cherry of Pittsburgh, Pa., special guests.

Enameled wood should never be cleaned with soda and water. It should be sponged with a solution of warm, soapy water and then polished with a little furniture cream.

PARTY SALAD
By Mrs. J. S. Smart

Ingredients: 4 slices of pineapple, 2 small cucumbers or 1 large one cut fine, ½ package Knox gelatine, piece of onion size of walnut, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, juice of 3 lemons, pecan meats, coloring.

Directions: Soak gelatine in ½ cup cold water. Boil onion in enough water to make 1½ cups after boiling 10 minutes. Add sugar, salt and the gelatine. Let stand until cold, then add the lemon juice.

Put in cups and fill with pineapple juice, then the chopped pineapple and cucumbers and ⅛ pound of pecan meats. Color green with fruit coloring and mold. A little strip of pimiento may be put in each mold if desired. This will serve 14 persons.

SPINACH SALAD (Original)
By Rosa L. Boyd, North Main St.

Ingredients: Fresh spinach, salt and pepper, salad dressing, cheese or chopped boiled egg, lettuce leaves, thousand island dressing.

Directions: Boil spinach in as little water as possible, drain and chop fine. Mold into balls. After seasoning with salt, pepper and a small amount of salad dressing, roll the balls in finely pulverized boiled egg yolk or cheese. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with rounds of white of egg, also rolled in egg yolk or cheese. Use thousand island dressing on top. Pretty for a yellow motif, and very good.

S. O. O. B. BIRTHDAY FETE IS TOMORROW

To celebrate the birthday anniversary of the founding of the Social Order of Beauceant, a covered-dish supper will be served in Anaheim park tomorrow night at 6 o'clock.

Members are asked to bring a covered-dish, table service, and sandwiches. Members of Knight Templars are invited to attend with their families. Mrs. J. W. Hancock is in charge of arrangements.

Musicians Do Fine Work At Fair

Mrs. Sally Coe Mueller, soprano, and Miss Charlotte Hollister, pianist, Orange musicians, brought more musical laurels to Orange county when they presented two successful one-hour programs at the San Diego exposition Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Mueller, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Jess Coe, was complimented by Fred Heitfelt, manager of special events, on her beauty of voice and her stage presence. At the close of the evening program, Clyde M. Vanderburg, director of radio and public address, suggested an audition, and after hearing her sing, requested that she prepare several Spanish numbers for a special Spanish fiesta, to be given in the future. She will also sing several numbers by Victor Herbert.

Miss Hollister, who at present is doing accompanying work at U. S. C., will leave August 1 on a concert tour with Ataloa, a Chickasaw Indian contralto. They will travel north as far as Seattle, and give concerts in California, Oregon and Washington.

Miss Phyllis Lucy Keyes of the music department of Orange High school, former teacher of both girls, announced the programs. Numbers judged outstanding in Mrs. Mueller's program were "Italian Street Song" (Herbert), "At the Well" (Hageman), "One Fine Day" (Puccini), "Jewel Song" (Gounod), "Summer" (Chaminade), "My Lover He Comes on the Skee" (Clough-Leighter) and "The Look," written by Miss Keyes and sung from the manuscript.

Outstanding numbers of Miss Hollister were "Miss Remington," an imitation of a typewriter; "Evening in Granada" (Debussy) and "Notturno" (Respighi).

To renovate velvet, hold it pile downwards over a saucepan of boiling water to which a little ammonia has been added. Afterwards, hold it over a hot iron to dry and to raise the pile again.

COOKIES FOR THE PICNIC

It's a wise cook who keeps an ample supply of cookies on hand in summer, for foraging parties are apt to descend on her unexpectedly for "something for the picnic." Here are cookies, easy to make and satisfying to the taste.

Malt Cocoa Oatmeal Cookies

½ cup shortening	¼ tsp. salt
1 cup sugar	1 cup raisins
2 eggs	½ cup walnut meats
¾ cup milk	7 tbsp. malt cocoa
2 cups oatmeal	1 tsp. baking soda
2 cups flour
1 tsp. cinnamon

Cream the shortening and add the sugar. Cream them together until light and fluffy. Add the well-beaten eggs and the milk and oatmeal. Sift the flour before measuring. Add the malt cocoa, soda, salt and cinnamon to flour and sift again. Add to the shortening a little at a time. Stir in the raisins and walnut meats. Drop from a teaspoon onto a greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven until golden brown.

Cocoanut Cookies

2 eggs	3½ cups flour
2 cups sugar	2 tsp. baking powder
¾ cup milk	½ tsp. salt
1 cup melted shortening	1 tsp. vanilla

Beat eggs, add sugar, milk and melted shortening and mix well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to the first mixture. Add vanilla and mix well. Chill. Roll out thin on a slightly floured board. Cut dough with a round fluted cutter, brush each cookie with a little milk and sprinkle with cocoanut. Place on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate over about 10 minutes or until brown.

EASY TO MAKE RHUBARD JAM

Rhubarb jam is delicious and healthful.

Rhubarb Jam

4 lbs. rhubard — Grated rind and
4 lbs. sugar — Juice of 1 lemon

Method: If possible, select strawberry rhubarb because of its color. Wipe and cut into inch lengths, discarding any long strings but retaining pink skin as far as possible. Cover with sugar and let stand overnight. Add lemon rind and juice, bring to boiling point and cook gently one hour. Turn into sterilized glasses and cover with hot melted paraffin.

If desired, a few pieces of ginger root—preferably the green—may be cooked with the fruit, but should be removed before turning jam into glasses.

TOMATOES NEEDED FOR ONE'S DIET

Tomatoes are so universally liked that it is scarcely necessary to emphasize their special value in the diet. They contribute vitamin C in abundance, and some of vitamins A, B and G. Cooking and canning do not materially affect their vitamin content. Again, tomatoes furnish alkalinity to the body. If eaten in liberal quantities, they help to counterbalance the effect of acid-forming foods such as meat, cheese, cereals and eggs.

Menus of The Day

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

A DELICIOUS ENDING

(Refreshing dessert recipe)

Melon halves make attractive containers for chilled diced fruits, berries or frozen desserts.

Dinner Serving Two

Escalloped Chicken and Rice
Pickled Peaches
Rolls Currant Jam
Sliced Cucumber Salad
Fruit Cantaloupe Dessert
Coffee

Escalloped Chicken and Rice

3 tablespoons butter or chicken fat	1 tablespoon chopped pimientos
3 tablespoons flour	1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 cup milk	½ cup diced cooked chicken
½ cup chicken stock or cream	1½ cups boiled rice
2 tablespoons chopped pi-	¼ teaspoon salt

Melt butter and add flour; when blended add milk and stock and cook until creamy sauce forms. Add seasonings and chicken. Mix well and pour into buttered shallow baking dish. Cover with rice and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Boiled Rice

½ cup rice — 1 teaspoon salt
8 cups water

Carefully wash rice. Add salt to water and boil, slowly add rice. Boil quickly 20 minutes. Pour into strainer and rinse rice with warm water. This removes surplus starch and will prevent "sticky" rice. Serve plain or with chicken, fowl or meat.

Boiled Chicken

4 pound chicken — 1 teaspoon salt
6 cups water

Carefully wash, clean and cut up chicken. Add rest of ingredients. Cover and boil slowly 1½ hours or until chicken is very tender when tested with fork. Remove chicken and let stock cool and chill.

Fruit Cantaloupe Dessert

1 cantaloupe	½ cup diced pineapple
1 large peach, peeled	¼ cup sugar
1 cup black cherries	2 slices lime

Thoroughly chill all ingredients. Cut cantaloupe in halves and fill with rest of fruit attractively arranged. Sprinkle with sugar and add lime juice. Garnish with mint leaves.

DOG MAY MAKE ROUND-WORLD HOP

START CANNING CHERRIES NOW

Cherries are ripe! To many housewives this means canning the delicious fruit in preparation for the winter months. Here is a good recipe:

To Can Cherries

Stone and weigh the cherries. Allow to each pound a half pound of sugar; sprinkle this in layers between the cherries, and stand them aside for a half hour. Heat to boiling point enough to fill three or four jars, skim, and stir lightly until they boil again. Scald the jars, adjust the rubbers, and scald the tops, stand a jar on a folded towel on a pie tin, carry it to the stove, and holding it near the preserving kettle, fill with the boiling cherries; quickly fasten on the top. So continue, filling and sealing one jar before filling a second.

Strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and huckleberries may be canned by this same method.

RHUBARB TAPIOCA PROVES TO BE DELICIOUS DISH

Here is a slightly different way to use rhubarb, which should appear often on menus:

Rhubarb Tapioca

⅜ cup pearl tapioca	1 tablespoon butter
4 cups water	1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar

Method: Soak tapioca in cold water for one hour. Drain, add four cups water and cook in double boiler half an hour. Add salt and sugar. Pour mixture over rhubarb, which has been washed, drained and cut into small pieces, and arranged in bottom of baking dish. Add butter, set in pan of hot water, and bake 30 minutes.

STUFF MUSHROOMS FOR A GRAND MEAL

Mushrooms are redolent of Italy, and Italians know comfort begins at home. Try for yourself the effect of a succulent plate of stuffed mushrooms on the dinner table.

Use the large wild mushrooms. Wash them and remove the stems, split the stems and lay them with the caps frilly side up on the bottom of a large baking pan. Put a little olive oil and salt and pepper over them and bake them for about half an hour at 375 degrees or 400, until their own liquor has been reabsorbed and the fungi are oily and tender.

Make a batter of six beaten eggs, six tablespoons of olive oil, about half a cup of grated Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper and a lavish sprinkling of finely chopped parsley and garlic.

Pour this over the mushrooms and continue to bake until the egg mixture is cooked and turning a delicate delectable brown.

HOW TO CONSERVE MINERAL SALTS

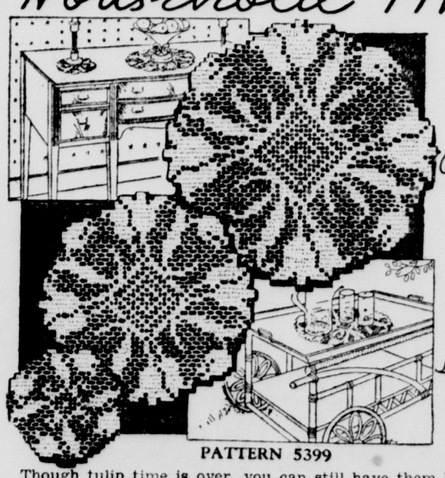

Mineral salts are not destroyed by heat, but they are dissolved in the "pot liquor" from cooked vegetables. Even the moisture condensing in the bottom of the steamer contains mineral salts in solution. Baking in the skin or in a casserole are cooking methods which best conserve the minerals and vitamins.

SO THEY WERE MARRIED

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Fred Hodgson, Atlanta, married Janet Glume, Chicago, three times in the same day. The marriages took place in Yokohama, Japan. The first was merely a civil ceremony before a Japanese justice of the peace. The second took place in the offices of the American consul, and the third was performed by a Protestant minister.

FIND OLD BONES IN THAMES RIVER

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—The bed of the Thames near historic Magna Charta island has yielded the fossilized remains of what are believed to be the bones of three neolithic men dating back to about 2000 B. C.

These finds along with a bronze dirk of the middle bronze age and a battle axe of the ninth or tenth century have been brought up in dredging operations in the river.

OIL HANDY IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A belief that Brazil's subsoil will yield oil was strengthened when the minister of war sent a memorandum to the minister of communications stating that in Sao Paulo state drilling had indicated wells capable of 10,000 barrels daily. "All you need is an investment of $28,000," the memo said.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

You know you really should make an effort to be near a radio along about 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. For at that time London plans to short-wave to America another one of those star-studded shows honoring King George's silver jubilee. Both coast-to-coast networks (KFI and KHJ) will release the broadcast. Noel Coward, the theater's most versatile personality; Gertrude Lawrence, an English favorite who has performed in America many times; Charlotte Greenwood, American comedienne and singer, and a brilliant roster of other stage, screen and radio stars will unite their talents in the radio tribute to King George.

MISS GREENWOOD

Noel Coward and Miss Lawrence will team-up to sing many of the familiar Coward tunes. And you can count on Charlotte Greenwood to turn loose some priceless humor.

Arthur Tracy, whom you'll remember as "The Street Singer," is also given prominent billing.

Others to be heard are Erna Fack, soprano, and Austin Croome Johnson, favorites with radio listeners on the continent.

When you read this it'll probably be too late to catch Ruth Etting's broadcast tonight over KFI at 4:30 o'clock. But we tried to warn you yesterday about it.

This is (was) her first appearance locally in some time.

The Etting songs have been a regular weekly release in eastern quarters, but since she had to come to Hollywood for a movie the sponsor decided on a nation-wide audience.

Phil Baker signs off his present series over KFI-NBC at 5:30 o'clock. The comedian is another who is contracted to face the cameras during the next few months.

Feeling Well Today?

By DR. IAGO GALDSTON

MIXING PROTEINS AND CARBOHYDRATES

For many years the idea has been promoted by faddists that eating certain foods at the same time is fraught with danger. Particularly hazardous, some have claimed, is the mixing of proteins and carbohydrates.

A semblance of scientific warrant is given the claims of the faddists by the established fact that proteins are digested mainly in an acid medium (in the stomach), while carbohydrates are digested in an alkaline medium in the intestines.

All Foods Have Proteins

That the pretensions of the faddists are groundless is almost self-evident in light of the fact that practically all foods contain an admixture of proteins, fats and carbohydrates, and that those foods which are called protein or carbohydrate are so designated because of the predominance in them of one of the three food elements.

Thus, meat, considered a protein food, contains substantial amounts of carbohydrate, and potatoes, considered principally a carbohydrate food, contains substantial amounts of protein.

Humans Omnivorous

Furthermore, the omnivorous nature of the human animal has been proved by world-wide experience. Man subsists equally well on the high protein dietary of the Arctics, the high carbohydrate regimen of the tropics, and the most extraordinary food combinations of the temperate zones.

The alleged incompatibility of proteins and carbohydrates recently was subjected to a year's test by Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss, of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

Dr. Rehfuss, famed for his studies in gastric function, studied first the digestion time of a meal consisting entirely of meat. Then he made a similar study of a carbohydrate meal (potatoes). Then he combined the two in one meal.

His conclusions are: "There is no evidence in the literature (medical) or in my investigation to lead me to believe that proteins and carbohydrates are incompatible in the stomach."

Talks to Parents

Spartan Motherhood

Practical Poetry

A study of Mother Goose rhymes and how they originated would be an interesting and rewarding investigation for parents and all who are concerned with the mental processes of childhood. Our ancestors faced precisely the same problems which we face today, and being less adequately supplied with books and charts, and because of the scarcity of schools obliged to do much educating of children at home, they used practical short-cuts which modern times might emulate.

Nursery schools were unheard of, but nursery teaching by painless methods was a commonplace. In the large families, where the mother was overwhelmed with duties, the teaching had to be done incidentally, and in some way which required little effort and yet would "take."

Poetry Used

How were children taught numbers? Read the rhyme, "One, two, buckle my shoe." Parents and children alike made use of such a jingle as "Thirty days hath September." Bits of old weather lore were passed along by such lines as "When the wind is in the north." Historical facts were recorded for the child in verse, as for example, "Remember, remember the fifth of November." For years these bits of information were passed along from mother to child.

Memorize Easily

A little child memorizes very easily, and much information can be given him in play form without his being conscious of it. Rhyme and repetition are first aids to any memory. With these facts in mind and Mother Goose as an example, the clever mother can accomplish wonders.

A gift for facile verse is all that she needs. Years later the jingles which she uses to teach her babies will still be fixed in the minds of the babies grown old, and may well echo down time to her many times great grandchildren.

SHOWDOWN ON DAM SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26 (AP)—A new weapon was wielded by Rep. Ford (D., Calif.) today to force a showdown in the house of legislation validating Parker dam on the Colorado river.

Armed with a new bill authorizing the structure, the congressman said he planned to wield it "strategically" in a drive to clear away the legislative tangle blocking final approval of the California project. Delay, he charged, was costing the Metropolitan Water district $10,000 daily.

Wall paper that has become spotted with grease can be cleaned with paste made of Fuller's earth and water. Leave till dry, then brush off.

JEFFREY BACK FROM TOUR

Relates Spain Citrus Freeze

Thirty-eight days spent on an Italian freighter between Wilmington and Europe were among the shortest 38 days ever spent by George Jeffrey of Irvine, he said today following his return from a three months' trip with Mrs. Jeffrey.

Good food, comfortable quarters and congenial companions combined to shorten the time, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey spent more than a month traveling in Spain. The stories of the disastrous freeze in Spain's citrus orchards were not exaggerated, Mr. Jeffrey said, describing large piles of frozen oranges he saw.

Tangiers was one of the most interesting countries visited by the Orange county travelers. The women provided plenty of action, Mr. Jeffrey said, whenever anyone tried to photograph them. They apparently have an aversion to cameras, despite the fact that their faces are nearly covered, according to their customs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey returned home by way of the Atlantic and by train across the continent.

ELKS PLAN CHIMES TO NOTE 'MYSTIC HOUR' OF ORDER

A daily ceremonial at the "mystic hour of Elkdom" may become a reality for Santa Ana Elks if plans of lodge No. 794 to obtain a set of chimes that will sound at 11 o'clock each evening are carried through.

At the meeting of the lodge this week, Walter Collins was appointed to head a committee to investigate the purchase of the chimes. San Bernardino lodge has a set that chime automatically each night at 11 o'clock simultaneously with the dimming of lights at the clubhouse. Action on the report of the committee will be taken at a later meeting.

ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede just has been brought up against a dilemma. Either she must allow her innocent lover, Guy Lumley, to face a charge of murder that he probably cannot beat, or she must permit her father to marry Daphne Sumers. And Alison is convinced that Daphne plans to take her father to Spain and there do away with him at a little hotel run by a man with whom Daphne is in love.

CHAPTER XLI
DAPHNE'S RUSE

Alison's voice seemed to come from miles away as she said, "That's why you wanted me on the honeymoon!"

"What are you talking about?" But there was a gleam of fear now in Daphne's eyes. Her voice was perfect—incredulous, a trifle impatient. But it did not deceive the girl.

To Alison, it was as if a film was unrolling before her, shadowy, a little blurred; that hotel among the mountains—a climbing accident, perhaps—just one survivor. A search party which failed to find two bodies, already safely buried somewhere—buried maybe under the floor of an old Spanish kitchen.

So neat, so very simple! No wonder Daphne had fought hard to make her go with them. But even now, now that she knew and was warned, would her father be safe? Even while she lived, Alison thought, there were other ways; Daphne might induce him to insure his life.

Yet if she told her father, Guy would be charged with murder—Daphne would see to that! Could he prove his innocence? Was there any way to save them both? Must she choose between them?

Guy—or her father.

With a sudden, brusque movement, Alison eluded Daphne and stood up.

"I don't care what you say. I'm going to the police!"

"Oh? About what?" Daphne seemed merely amused.

"I'll tell them everything—that you got Guy to go down there, that you planned to kill me," Alison was a little breathless. "That you killed your husband."

"You've said that twice." There was menace in the slow tone. "I've said nothing. I've made allowances for your state of nerves. But twice is enough. You must have some evidence, Alison, before you make wild statements of that kind."

"He has evidence," swore Alison rashly.

"Who? Dr. Lumley. I think not," Daphne seemed completely self-possessed. "People don't die, in this country, Alison, without a death certificate, and my husband died of a duodenal ulcer. Fortunately, I can prove that."

She stopped, for Alison was not listening.

"There he is!"

A car hooted outside. Alison darted to the window. But the car which had backed up to the pavement was not Guy's, but her father's, and the man who got out and stopped to speak to the chauffeur was Robert himself.

Daphne had followed the girl; their eyes met.

"Well?" Vibrant with triumph.

Alison did not answer; she turned away with a sinking heart. Twenty minutes! Where could Guy be? What could have happened?

The bell was ringing. Was she going to face her father with the whole story, tell him everything, knowing that each word she spoke would strike at Guy? Daphne was looking towards the door expectantly.

White, shaking, desperate, Alison spoke almost to herself, "I wonder if father knows that. . . ."

"Knows what?" Daphne snapped out the words tensely.

"That your real name is Mrs. Poynter? He can't marry you under a false name, can he?"

"Oh, hush! Be quiet!"

Such a small thing. Yet there was Daphne staring at her with beady, frightened eyes; her face had turned a greenish-white. There was no vestige of her triumph left, nothing but stark fear.

The handle of the door was turning when Daphne's hand went out and clutched at Alison's arm.

"Listen," Daphne muttered, her lips close to the girl's ear. "I give in! I'll break off the engagement. Only don't tell him—leave it to me."

"Hullo? You here? Where did you find her?" Robert, coming in, looked from Alison to Daphne, but neither answered.

"I don't know where you've been all night, but you've given us both a most terrible fright! It was very wrong of you, very thoughtless!" Robert turned brusquely from Alison to his fiance. "Are you ready? I'm afraid I'm late, but we got held up by traffic. We ought to get on at once."

But Daphne did not move.

"Aren't you packed?" he asked.

"Sit down a moment, Bob, I've got to talk to you." Daphne trailed across the room, fetched a new box of cigarets from the table where it lay between a bouquet and the box of chocolates. She took a cigaret, offered them to Robert, but he shook his head.

"It's one-thirty already," he said doubtfully. "Couldn't we talk in the car?"

"No. It's something rather serious."

"What's happened?"

"Just this—" Daphne's voice was low, tremulous. "I can't marry you, Bob. It's off."

"My dear. What are you saying?" He took her round the waist, drew her in towards him. "Daphne? Darling, are you mad?"

"No, I mean it." She slipped from his arm, stood upright facing him, grave, pale and tragic.

"But why—what on earth—?" He swung round on Alison. Almost shouted at her. "What've you been doing?"

"Hush, Bob. It's not her fault. It's I who is wrong." Daphne's tone was penitent.

"What're you talking about?" he demanded.

"I was wrong last night." This was a new Daphne, this grieving woman who confessed in slow, pained words. "I didn't know the truth them. I thought that Alison was making up all these tales, because she was hysterical. I didn't understand that she had heard something about me."

Alison, turning, bewildered at this sudden change, met imploring eyes that seemed to ask her for forgiveness as Daphne added softly, sweetly, "I think you've been rather brave, really, child, to come to me. You see, Bob, she might've gone to you first, and I'd hated that."

"If you'd tell me what you're talking about," pleaded Robert.

"It's all my fault, Bob. Mine for lying to you. Only—I was so frightened, so terrified! If you knew what I'd been through! I ought to have told you everything when I told you about Dr. Lumley."

"Lumley?" He seized on the one tangible thread. "What's he got to do with it?"

"Everything." Daphne raised her tear-stained face bravely. "You see, Bob, what I told you about him was true. But it wasn't all the truth. He was a doctor, and his practice did go to pieces because of things that people said. But before that—when I was out in Nice with my husband, when Lumley was still doctoring—something else happened." Her voice trailed off, as if she could not go on.

"Don't tell me now if you don't want to," he said stoutly. "I don't care what you did or said."

"It wasn't my fault! It wasn't, honestly!" It broke from her in a cry of desperation. "I swear to God I never gave him the slightest encouragement!"

"Gave whom?" Alison asked that, sharply.

"That man—Dr. Lumley," said Daphne simply. "He was attending my husband at the time, he had to come every day. I saw him, naturally. I couldn't help it but I never said a thing to him to let him think—that. . . ." Her voice faded. Strengthened suddenly with indignation, "It was simply taking advantage of his position!"

"Are you trying to say—" Alison began, starting forward but her father cut her short.

"Shut up! I want to hear what Daphne has to tell me!"

And Daphne went on firmly, "Dr. Lumley made love to me—or tried to—and I snubbed him, of course. I told him that I'd tell my husband and get another doctor."

"That seemed to frighten him. I thought I'd get him to be sensible," Daphne declared. "And then—oh, Bob, it was only by the merest chance I found out what he'd done! He'd told the matron of the home, the nurse, everyone, that I was poisoning my husband!"

"That's an absolute lie!"

But Alison's father crushed her with a look. "My poor darling," he sympathized, patting his fian-

"Can you imagine anything cee's arm.

more mean—more utterly beastly?" There was a broken sob in Daphne's voice. "It was the nurse who told me. She knew that I'd simply lived in his room, looked after him in every sort of way, cooked things for him myself because the French cook didn't know how to cook them as he liked, sat up half the night, done everything.

"She couldn't bear to hear people saying the things they were saying. Oh, Bob, it was ghastly."

Alison sees the hopelessness of helping her father, tomorrow.

IRISH RIOTERS FACE ACTION

DUBLIN, Friday, July 26 (AP)—Minister of Finance John MacIntee indicated today that special powers may be demanded by the government if religious strife spreads through the Irish Free State.

Expressing regret at anti-Protestant outbreaks, MacIntee told the senate that those convicted of 'hooliganism" would bear the full weight of the law.

For the first time since the strife arose July 12 from the Protestant Orangemen's celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, no incidents were reported from Belfast and the military was withdrawn.

SUNDOWN STORIES

UNSELFISH PRESENTS

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I forgot about my bank," said Christopher Columbus Crow. "We took all the money from the house to pay for the advertisement and the license and had enough so that it really and truly never occurred to me to think of my bank with its bright five cent piece inside.

"To show you it never occurred to me I want you, Rip, to have my bank and the five cent piece. You may keep it for always and some day when you want a new collar, that will help toward getting one."

Christopher handed his bank to Rip.

"You must take it," Christopher insisted, "It's all I have to give you."

"We'll have to earn some money somehow," said Rip. "Ive been such an expense."

"Please, please don't talk that way, Rip," urged Willy Nilly.

"No, I won't; I know that part is unimportant," Rip answered.

And it was then that Top Notch gave his present. He pulled it out from beneath his wing—his little mirror he loved so much.

"I've not been carrying it lately," Top Notch said. "I left it in my general store. I didn't care how I looked when you weren't around. But I want you to have it, Rip. It's a very good mirror and I've just polished it."

"You'd give me that, Top Notch? You'd give me your little mirror?"

"Why not?" returned Top Notch, trying to behave in a matter of fact manner. "You're not a bad looking dog, you know!"

Rip leaned his head against Willy Nilly's knee. "There's nothing like the loyalty of the Puddle Muddlers," he said softly.

Tomorrow—"The Garden."

LET'S READ A NEW BOOK!

Book Reviews from the Public Library

By VERNA RAMSEY

JENNY LIND, by Edward Wagenknecht.

Jenny Lind was one of the greatest singers that ever lived. Though she has been dead since the eighties, her fame is still greater than that of many a singer who is living now. However, though everbody in our world knows Jenny Lind's name, comparatively few know anything in particular about her. She has become a legend.

In Mr. Wagenknecht's biography the steel engraving disappears, in its place is a living woman. Jenny Lind's admirers need not fear, however, that she has fallen into the hands of one of the debunking biographers. It would have been easy to treat her from this point of view, for she was a woman of hilarious, amazing idiosyncracies, everyone of them a convenient handle for the caricaturist. Mr. Wagenknecht is not a caricaturist. Every weakness, every peculiarity finds its proper place, yet the net result is to leave Jenny Lind higher in our esteem than before.

It is a sincere and charming portrait of one of the most famous and romantic of all singers.

BUT FOR HER GARDEN, by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman.

In this novel two very opposite temperaments come together in the persons of Judith and Hilary. Judith, a young Southern girl used to a comfortable but rather unconventional way of living, marries Hilary, a New York architect who worships good form. There are, of course, many adjustments to be made.

Some of the misunderstanding centers around Judith's garden in the country. This is a perfectly wonderful garden in the country, the kind of which gardeners dream. There are plants from all over the world as well as native flowers. So much care and study has gone into this spot that it has taken on a personality of its own. This at first comes between Judith and Hilary but at last unites them.

Judith's life is full of the things that a great many people would like to do or think they would like to do. All in all the book is a very entertaining and plausible fairy story for adults.

CARNEGIE THE INCREDIBLE, by John K. Winkler. This tells the story of one of the greatest money makers of all time, who began life as a penniless boy and became the world's second richest citizen.

BESIDE A NORMAN TOWER, by Mazo de la Roche. This is the eloquent story of the adventures of a small sister and brother in a tiny Devon village and in London.

THE TALE OF A SHIPWRECK, by James Norman Hall. This is not only a thrilling account of a shipwreck on a lonely coral reef, but a new voyage of discovery into the whole story of the Bounty and her crew.

A RIPPING JOKE

CHICAGO.—"This is going to be funny," said the robber who reached into Rene Pomrening's trouser pocket, seized the lining, and jerked sharply. But judge for yourself.

In the robber's grasp as he left was Pomrening's purse, containing $483, the whole surrounded by the pocket and the seat of Pomrening's trousers. Pomrening's woman companion ran before he was "unseated."

BREAK OPIUM HABIT

SIANFU, Shensi, China. (AP)—The "two-bottle" system of curing opium addicts is proving effective here in a women's treatment center. It involves the use of a bottle filled with water and another containing an opium solution. Whenever the addict is given a dose from the opium bottle, it is refilled with water.

VOL. 1, NO. 74 Friday, July 26, 1935

HIKING TO HEALTH

SIX YEARS ago, when Mrs. Bertha Woodward of Seattle was 38, she started as a contestant in a 52-mile hiking contest. At mile 38 she had to quit. But she kept training, and last year she made the 52 miles and won the race. This year she's going to try again.

Mrs. Woodward is 43 now, and a grandmother. She works seven hours a day in a laundry, does all her housework and walks several miles each evening—for exercise.

The remarkable thing about all this is that there's nothing very remarkable about it. Neither the movies nor vaudeville have made any offers and no book publishers seem to want a book about Mrs. Woodward.

There are too many women of 43 like her.

Fifty years ago a woman of 40 was old. She was either hobbling around on a stick, enjoying continuous frail health or being pushed around in a wheel chair.

Today's woman of 40 or 45—or 60—is spry, alert, hardy and vigorous. Young faces bloom under white hair—and the youth doesn't all come out of the drugstore, either. Most of it comes out of the swimming tank, the mountain hike, the cross-country auto drive or the sensible life modern women lead.

Women are very proud of the way they have "emancipated" themselves in the past half century. They should be prouder of the happy, useful years they have added to the average woman's life.

THE JOURNAL AND POLITICS

WHAT this newspaper thinks of partisan politics is not so important, as to its influence on personal decision. The important thing is that this newspaper presents both sides to political controversies. The clientele can then make its own decisions. This does not mean The Journal does not have its own opinions, nor will it refrain from expressing them. But from the standpoint of trying to persuade through partisan propaganda in its columns—that is not the policy or purpose.

When The Journal carries articles on renewed activities of the republican party, of grass root conventions, desertions by prominent young democrats in Kansas and Texas from administration ranks, of rumors that Jim Reed of Missouri will take the stump for the 1936 republican candidate, or other disaffections, what that influence will be is as easily defined by the voter as it is by a newspaper.

The Journal prefers the independent position in matters political. Orange county is normally a republican stronghold. If a selfish purpose actuated, that would be the side to take, but in fairness to all an impartial presentation of the news comes first.

But in the last analysis The Journal will not hesitate to state its position on any question, political or otherwise, when it considers the weal of the public calls for action.

WHAT DOES SANTA ANA NEED?

"WHAT one thing does Santa Ana need most," is being asked in a symposium conducted by The Journal in its "Meet Your Neighbor" column.

Not that the opinions or suggestions will change the topography or revolutionize the social or business customs of the city, but the ideas aggregated can have a helpful influence in reflecting to the official life of the city what citizens prefer, or at least are giving thought to.

Many of The Journal's contributors have offered some constructive thought to this matter. Progress is always a civic issue. Officials want to know what their constituents are thinking about, and if this promotion helps make Santa Ana a bigger and better city, the purpose this newspaper has in mind is being accomplished.

A significant attitude has come to light in two recent reports. One citizen, whose residence is of such brevity that he feels it would be inappropriate for him to suggest any special objective, frankly declines to do so, while an old pioneer strikes out boldly and gives his opinions, and reasons therefor.

The discussion cannot help but contribute something to our community welfare, and your part, while apparently insignificant, may assist greatly, or be the germ to a major project. In any event your ideas are invited.

One sure thing is that anybody who tackles Mussolini is in for an awful beating in the newspapers he controls.

THOSE WHO DESERVE

PRESS reports recently carried a story about a number of SERA workers being arrested in a Los Angeles gambling room. The inference is they were gambling. They must have had a distorted sense of appreciation, both from the government relief side and their own obligation to society.

Where there is actual suffering the administration has attempted to give relief. It is difficult to prevent a diversion of money from the purpose for which it was intended, but where such cases do come to light the subject receiving such assistance has proven his or her unworthiness, and there remains just one course for the government to take—and that is to discontinue an unappreciated charity.

There has in more recent years crept into the life of our nation, not only in charity but in business, what is known as the chiseling element. The inclination to get something for nothing is a temptation. It has always been present, but the economic distress has enlarged the scope of operations for those whose parasitical tendencies are now making government relief a difficult task.

There is a vast differential between worthy misfortune and hypocritical practice. Let's help those who deserve help, and inflict on imposters the rigorous hand of condemnation.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Friday, July 26. Thoughts while strolling: The blondes will wear red hats. Railroad station clocks always a bit fast—to fool the laggards. Braddock never taking a drink in despair was a fine epic of adversity. Steve Hannagan with sideburns could almost pass for John Bull.

Grand name for that new bar: The Twitter Room. A Normandie docking still throws the police force out of gear. Ray Noble appears to be the only left-handed orchestra leader. Gold diggers' jargon of their pluckings: "A fast five," a "slow twenty" or a "taxicab ten."

Look alikes: Burton Rascoe and Fred Astaire. The head that artists would like to sculp: Clara Bell Walsh's. Ward Morehouse's puckish grin. All the Juleses seem to have just popped out of the bandbox—Glaenzer, Bache, Brulatour. And Charles E. Mitchell's lapel flower is as jaunty as ever.

Newest high-salaried calling—cocktail hour singing! Such as by Dwight Fiske and Bobby La Branche. A thousand a week and better. And be lionized by the ladies to boot. Lee Shubert in one of those detached wanders. Sees no one. Plump Anna Held jr. in a cherry roadster.

Nobody can express that wounded faun look like Jimmy Savo. What became of Lloyd Nolan, the hit of "One Sunday Afternoon?" Didn't John Barrymore whisk off page 1 in a jiffy? Most vivid movie character: Charles Laughton in Henry VIII. Sudden thought: Will the Empire State building outride the storm?

Bruce Barton's daughter Betsey, after a ten months convalescence in an auto crack-up that injured her spine, had her first day at the family dinner table recently. To celebrate the occasion she presided at a dinner of her father's close men friends. In the party were Grantland Rice, Frank Crowninshield, Lou Wurzburg, Dr. Benjamin Farrell, Rex Cole and Lou Maxon. And Miss Barton was the life of the party.

Janette Hackett has become the last of the glamorous and vanishing vaudeville troupers. Her flash dancing act has been playing almost continuously since the glory of the Palace days in the surrounding suburbia—Jamaica, White Plains and the like. The astute statisticians of variety say that in another six months this form of enterainment will be completely extinct. It hangs on now because of the big movies that sprinkle a few turns between films. The number of these lessen weekly and it is predicted all will abandon them shortly.

Bronx express interlude. He was a neatly-dressed, middle aged J. M. Barrie-looking man. Ensconced in the only available subway set, he drew a folded napkin from his pocket, spreading it carefully on his lap. Next he got out a pearl-handled knife and quite oblivious of fellow passengers, flashed from another pocket a partially whittled cake of scented soap. Then he proceeded to carve toward its logical conclusion—a duck: The chips fell daintily on his napkin. When he reached his uptown station the only thing missing about his adventure in art was the quack.

And high up in a down-town office building Dr. Arthur Corby gives way to his hobby of collecting penny banks. He now has more than 1600 carefully indexed on shelves in his eight-room office. He has gathered them from every corner of the world and is said to be the only collector of this sort. As a child he longed for a certain penny bank he was never able to acquire.

What was once New York's Automobile Row, between 53rd street and Columbus Circle on Broadway, is only a shell of an opulent strip. Its windows, salons and salesmen were the most fastidiously dressed in any area, its pavements flush with the most stylish shoppers. Even Jandorf, the first of his kind, became a millionaire selling used cars. Today three of the big motor buildings are starkly empty. Sales forces are shucked to a minimum. Everything has a marked-down air. The business has moved further up-town.

Such weather recalls Mark Twain's line: "I feel like taking off my skin and sitting around in my bones."

George Gershwin was standing nearby when a neatly dressed white haired man bent over one of those spurt-ups along the sidewalk edge for a drink. In leaning his hat and glasses fell off. In retrieving them his fountain pen and cane clattered to the ground. "I seem to have joined the general collapse!" he cackled.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 26. —The real story of the lobbying scandal has been passed over by the senate investigators. So far they have been probing into the utilities men themselves—men who are hired and paid and have spent their lives working for utilities and can be expected to lobby for them.

The real story pertains to the other group of lobbyists—the inside men—who can walk into the White House or onto the floor of congress at any time. These were the men who really counted. These were the men who could change votes. And they did.

For the most part they were former members of congress and former members of the democratic national committee. They did their lobbying right on the floor of congress.

HERE is the roll call on some of them:

Bruce Kremer—Elephantine former democratic national committeeman from Montana who lobbied for Public Service of New Jersey. A close friend of Attorney General Cummings, Kremer is a past master at back-thumping and has amassed a large fortune representing big business in its fight against the new deal. Roosevelt forced him to resign as national committeeman, but he remains a great friend of the president's secretary, Marvin McIntyre.

Arthur Mullen—Former democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, who fought valiantly on behalf of Cities Service and the Henry L. Doherty interests. His chief operator was Senator Burke of Nebraska, whom Mullen helped elect, and whom he sent onto the senate floor to change votes on the holding corporation bill. Forced to resign as committeeman, Mullen also remains a great friend of Marvin McIntyre.

Robert Jackson—Former secretary of the democratic national committee and ardent lobbyist for Niagara Hudson Power company, the United corporation and other Carlisle interests. One of the most charming members of the new deal, Bob has waxed fat lobbying for the old deal. Now has rented the famous "Pink Palace," once owned by Margaret Fahnstock Stokes. He, too, is a social buddy of McIntyre.

Joe Tumulty—Former efficient secretary to Woodrow Wilson; now one of the most effective lobbyists in Washington. He did valiant service for the Carlisle interests during the holding corporation fight.

George Moses—Wise-cracking former republican senator from New Hampshire, bon vivant, and still most popular with his former colleagues. Moses worked with the committee of public utility executives and was one of the gladhanders at the stag parties thrown by Senator Dieterich in lobbying against the holding corporation bill.

Patrick J. Hurley—Tall, mirror-watching former secretary of war under Herbert Hoover. He worked for Associated Gas and Electric. Pat first began lobbying for this firm when it was under investigation by Ferdinand Pecora and the senate banking committee.

Tom McKeown—Former member of congress from Oklahoma; now also a lobbyist for Associated Gas and Electric. Once a Coal county cowboy. McKeown is short, fat, florid and before being defeated for congress, was tagged a progressive. In the holding corporation bill fight he was one of the most active lobbyists.

Tuck Milligan—Former congressman from Missouri and at that time a champion of progressive legislation. Tuck now lobbies for Commonwealth Edison of Illinois.

Clyde Reed—Former republican governor of Kansas, who came to Washington to help out Arthur Mullen as lobbyist of Cities Service and the Doherty interests.

Carroll Linwood Beedy—Former republican congressman from Maine, who came down to fight the holding corporation bill for Bangor Hydro-Electric and other Maine power companies. His instructions also included word to do everything possible to beat the PWA development of the Pasamaquoddy power project.

So powerful were some of these lobbyists that Henry L. Doherty was able to visit the White House during the thick of the fight and take tea with the president. Responsible for gaining him entree was gangling, gray-haired Arthur Mullen, intimate friend of Marvin McIntyre, guardian of the White House door.

Note—Now that the lobbying investigation is going places, it is interesting to watch the social columns for notes on those who are finding the heat of Washington too much for them. Among those recently listed were two significant names: Bob Jackson and Bruce Kremer.

STRANGE TALE

THE SENATE'S sensational disclosures of phony telegrams against the holding corporation bill sprang from an insignificant hobby on the part of one congressman.

He is Representative D. J. Driscoll, a liberal-democratic newcomer from St. Marys, Pa. Tall, slender, scholarly looking, with a shock of snow-white hair, Driscoll has made it a point to read personally every communication he receives.

When the flood of anti-holding company bill wires began to pour in on him, he took them home to read, and it was while perusing the 1,300 telegrams in the quiet of his study, that his hobby proved so valuable.

For years Driscoll has made a practice of studying proper names, their origin and meaning. In the course of this he has found that more names begin with W than any other letter, with S, T and D next in frequency.

BUT NEVER A "W"

IN SORTING the utility telegrams Driscoll was struck by the fact that four-fifths of them bore names beginning with the first five letters of the alphabet and none with the letters W, S or T.

This singular fact led him to a close examination of the names. He has wide acquaintance in his district, but in the hundreds of wires he found only a few whom he knew.

Driscoll decided there was something much amiss and set about to check his suspicions.

He wrote to one of the names he knew. The result was a prompt reply that the person not only had not telegraphed, but was for the bill.

That was enough for Driscoll. He had a private talk with Chairman Hugo Black of the senate probers, who in turn put some secret investigators on the trail.

What followed has been headline news ever since.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

People Will Pay for National Sins

A Biblical warning runs: "Be sure your sins will find you out." Abundant evidence applies this admonition to national sins as well. Ruthless and heedless exploitation of material resources exacts its inexorable toll. Denuded forests, stark mountainsides, gutted hills, gullied fields, declining fertility, vanishing wildlife, the ravages of fire and flood, stupid indifference and merciless cupidity, are rapidly bringing us to a day of reckoning. Blessed with a national heritage vaster than ever before fell to the lot of man, we have been flinging it away in wanton profligacy.

We boast of subduing the continent in less than a century, meaning, of course, that we rampaged over its surface, despoiling it of its pristine beauty, marring it with the scarifiers of vaunting civilization. Just what was the particular reason for all the unseemly hurry, other than insatiable greed, none can tell. Like small children with many sticks of candy, tasting all of them and smearing the whole lot, we have smeared the face of the continent.

Robber barons and industrial pirates have looted the treasure-house. Lumber and steel kings, coal and oil magnates, copper and gold giants levied their crushing tolls. The commonalty seemed content with what crumbs fell their way. Deeming the bounties of nature inexhaustible, and not worth saving, hugging the delusion that fabulous riches lay within the grasp of every man, the mad scramble went on. As if the crack of eternal doom were at hand any moment and everything would be swallowed into oblivion, each one clutched what he could to "improve" the country.

Not until the turn of this century did our people begin seriously to appreciate the fact that much of our original wealth was gone and that we were scraping the bottom of the bin.

And now that the very soil, from whence come all our creature comforts, is shifting beneath our feet have we really bestirred ourselves. Conservation plans are getting under way. Some tiny efforts are being expended to restore what we have lost. And we are due to make the staggering discovery that all the wealth garnered in the last hundred years will be more than spent if restoration is even approximated. And most of the spoilation can never be undone.

The robber barons heaped up their treasure, but the people will pay and pay and pay in expiating the national sins.
